POLITICS HOLDS 6 WOMEN IN JAIL, FOUR WITH BABIES

Two Expectant Mothers Among Those Imprisoned in Chicago on Contempt Order of 1919.

GOVERNOR'S PARDONS IGNORED BY SHERIFF

Cook County Officers in Position to Release Women Belong to Anti-Small Faction.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, May 9.—The majority of the law, with due regard for political considerations, might be upheld, the six women who were arrested Thursday to satisfy an aged contempt proceeding are being held at the Cook County Jail, notwithstanding that a full pardon for each has been issued by Gov. Small.

Four of the women, Dora Seigel, 28, with a 17-month-old girl; Katie Geier Hadl, with a 6-month-old son, and Anna Buchart, 28, with a 3-month-old child.

The mothers are Mrs. Eva Glutting, 36 years old, who has a 7-month-old boy; Dora Seigel, 28, with a 17-month-old girl; Katie Geier Hadl, with a 6-month-old son, and Anna Buchart, 28, with a 3-month-old child.

The case was argued again today, but Healey is of the opinion that Judge Denis Sullivan of the Superior Court, who committed the women, will uphold himself.

Meanwhile the mothers are making the most of an extraordinary situation that took them from comfortable homes without warning and placed them in cells. They are confined in a compartment with drug addicts and women committed for immorality. Whites and negroes are mixed, as there are no special accommodations in the already overcrowded jail.

Everything possible is being done for their comfort by Jailor Westbrook, who sees that the babies and mothers get milk and other good things to eat. Yet the fact that they are confined with women of the street and are locked in cells at night weighs most heavily upon the mothers.

Offenses Date Back to 1919.

Their offenses date back to February, 1919, when all were cigarmakers for the American Cigar Co. A strike took place and the girls began picketing the shop. They were repeatedly arrested and warned to remain away from the factory, but were insistent upon their rights and to the last man in the league against their activities. They defied this injunction, and were held in contempt of court.

They were given fines of from $50 to $100 and jail sentences of from 15 to 60 days. At that time Mrs. Hadl, Mrs. Liss and Miss Fencil were unmarried. The union appealed the case and in the delays that ensued, the girls sought employment elsewhere and subsequently the unmarried ones, except Miss Blotcher, got married.

They had forgotten all about the case until last Thursday evening when they were arrested simultaneously in their homes.

"We had forgotten all about the old case," said Mrs. Glutting, a timid little person. "We thought at our home that it was a joke, but they took us away and as I am nursing my baby, I could not leave it behind."

VOCATIONAL STUDENT SLAIN; ANOTHER HELD FOR DEATH

Prisoner Says Victim, on Whom Revolver Is Found, Was After Him.

By the Associated Press.
STILLWATER, Ok., May 9.—Beckham Cobb, 23 years old of Birmingham, Ala., a student at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College here, was shot and killed on a street bordering the college campus at noon today. Earl E. Gordon, 25, of Miami, also a student, was arrested.

Gordon was standing by Cobb's body when Sheriff Lillie arrested him. He made no statement other than that "Cobb was after him." A revolver was found on Cobb's body, according to the Sheriff. Cobb was shot four times, dying instantly. He was married, and had a son 13 months old.

Both Gordon and Cobb were former soldiers, who had been sent to the college for vocational training by the Federal Government.

DR. H. E. LIVINGSTONE FALLS DEAD IN ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH

Was Approaching Altar to Receive Communion—Had Been Suffering From Heart Trouble for Months.

Dr. H. Ehrhardt Livingstone, 44 years old, of 3400 Meramec street, fell dead as he was approaching the altar rail to receive communion in St. Anthony's (Monks) Catholic Church, 3134 Meramec street, at 6:30 a. m. today. He had been suffering from heart trouble for several months.

Dr. Livingstone had been a daily attendant at 6 o'clock mass at St. Anthony's Church for 17 years, the entire period of his residence in the parish. ### DAUGHERTY SAYS WAR FRAUD CASES ARE TO BE PROSECUTED

Statement, "Not Intended as Apology," Transmitted to Mondell Through President.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Attorney-General Daugherty, in a statement prepared at the request of President Harding and transmitted by the President today to Representative Mondell of Wyoming, Republican House leader, declared "the record of the department in connection with war contract cases calls for no apology and none is intended."

Apparently referring to recent charges in the House of Inaction in prosecution of war fraud cases, the Attorney-General asserted the "plans are laid and all cases will be energetically prosecuted." He added that "very substantial progress" had been made to date by the department despite lack of adequate facilities in men and money.

AMBASSADORS OF CHILE AND PERU CONFER IN WASHINGTON

First Step Toward Resumption of Diplomatic Relations Broken Over Tacna and Arica, 12 Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—The first step toward resumption of diplomatic relations between Chile and Peru in settlement of their controversy over Tacna and Arica, which brought the two countries to a breach 12 years ago, was taken today when the Peruvian Ambassador, Senor Piz, called on Senor Mathieu, Chilean Ambassador, and the two went together to the State Department and conferred with Secretary Hughes.

The meeting and conference resulted in the selection of next Monday, May 15, for beginning by the delegates of Chile and Peru of their conference here on the Tacna-Arica dispute.

There was a riot among the men prisoners Sunday night in a part of the jail for removing from the women's compartment, but they did not hear the uproar. They do suffer, however, from the walling of drug addicts at night. Mrs. Hadl said she had forgotten all about the case until last Thursday evening when they were arrested simultaneously in their homes.

MAN WHO SHOT EDDIE GUERIN IS FREED FROM PRISON

Charles Smith of Virginia Released Through Efforts of Lady Astor After Serving 15 Years.

CRIMINAL ESCAPEES ABROAD RECALLED

Guerin and 'Chicago May' Perpetrated Robbery in Paris and Guerin Escaped From Devil's Island.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 9.—Charles Smith, a Virginian, who shot the notorious Eddie Guerin, international crook and bank robber, in 1907, was released today from Dartmoor prison, where he had served 15 years of a life sentence, his liberation having been accomplished through the efforts of Lady Astor, herself a native of Virginia, and John Savage, the American Consul.

He is under a deportation order issued by the Home Office, and will sail immediately for America.

Smith's assault upon Guerin, which kept that resourceful lawbreaker in a hospital for eight years, was not made in the interest of society. The cause of it was one of May Vivienne Churchill, known to the police of Chicago, New York, Paris and London as "Chicago May."

Either Smith shot out of jealousy or he was urged to do so by the vengeance of a scorned woman.

Guerin is still in London, although he is reported as having lost the cash and bravado which once made him one of the most formidable criminals known to the police. He is now an old man. It is 15 years since Smith went to prison, and the case apparently had been forgotten. ## Barthou Tells of "Serious" Talk With Lloyd George

GENOA, May 9.—In a statement to the press last night, M. Barthou, head of the French delegation, after reiterating that Premier Lloyd George never told him that the differences between France and England meant the end of the entente, said respecting their meeting Saturday:

"We had a very long and serious conversation. It is difficult to form an opinion of a book by reading several pages, and that is what happened when false reports of our talk were published in England: Mr. Lloyd George was sad and seemed profoundly discouraged, but he never uttered a word of menace against France. He did say:

"We are at the turning point of our relations, but this was not said aggressively, but sadly. "Mr. Lloyd George told me he was deeply disappointed that France had preferred to side with Belgium rather than with England, which had shown such great affection for France during the war and which, with the dominions, had made such sacrifices."

"I assured him that there was not a solitary Frenchman who did not have gratitude in his heart for England. I emphasized that we stood by Belgium merely on a matter of principle and called attention to the fact that he himself in the House of Commons on April 2 had expressed the point of view on the restitution of foreigners' property in Russia, which is now upheld by Belgium and France. I told him that M. Poincare had written to the British Ambassador at Paris, explaining the French viewpoint and insisting that France was showing no preference in adopting her attitude on the Russian memorandum."

NEW PLAN TO MEET BELGIAN DESIRE TAKEN UP AT GENOA

British and Italian Delegates Meet With the Russians to Draw Up Clause Satisfying Belgium and France on Restoration of Property.

RUSSIANS AT WORK ON THEIR REPLY

Belgian Foreign Minister Denies He Has Changed Position, Says Allies Previously Approved His Stand on Property.

By the Associated Press.
GENOA, May 9.—English and Italian delegates to the economic conference, met today with members of the Russian delegation and began working out a new formula concerning the restoration of foreign property in Russia, said an announcement this afternoon by the French delegation.

The announcement said it was hoped to devise a new clause in the Russian memorandum which would satisfy Belgium, therefore France.

Dr. Wirth, the German Chancellor; Dr. Walter Rathenau, the Foreign Minister, and other members of the German delegation, displayed activity today in an effort to induce the Russian delegation to accept the memorandum from the allies such an answer as would not justify France and Belgium in withdrawing from the conference. Such withdrawal, the Germans argued, would only serve the interests of Russia's enemies.

M. Tchitcherine this afternoon addressed a note to Signor Schanzer asking whether the French Government had yet approved of the memorandum, and if not, what Governments had approved it.

The correspondent for the Evening News of London said he had learned that M. Tchitcherine had received wireless instructions from Moscow insisting that the Russian reply must be so framed as to avoid immediate breaking up of the conference.

The Russian delegation this morning called a large staff of typists to copy the response.

Said to Be Conciliatory.
Foreign Minister Tchitcherine and his associates insist that the reply is conciliatory, but the soviet conception of a conciliatory attitude, it is felt, may differ radically from what the French and even the British would characterize by this term.

Premier Lloyd George is still optimistic that the conference can be saved, but an unshakable pessimism prevails in most quarters.

It is Belgium's objection to clause seven in the allied memorandum to the Russians behind whom France is standing in her opposition to the memorandum. Consequently all eyes in Genoa are on Belgium and on M. Jasper, Foreign Minister, and chairman of the Belgian delegation.

Belgium's Explanation.
"The question raised by Belgium about clause seven has two aspects," M. Jasper said. "On one side it is a question of principle concerning respect for and protection of private property abroad. The other side concerns the economic restoration of Russia by reviving the industry of that country."

Belgium invested two and a half billions of francs, gold, in Russian industry, and possessed 361 factories, including blast furnaces, glass factories, electric street railways, cloth mills, water works and electric light plants. We used to produce in Russia before the war 42 per cent of the foundry output of the entire country, 48 per cent of the steel rails, 75 per cent of the chemical products, 50 per cent of the glass, table ware and 30 per cent of the window glass."

No other country is so prepared as Belgium to restore Russia if the latter returns to the former Belgian proprietor their old possessions. Money again will pour into Russia. Belgian industrialists already have a billion francs laid aside to restore their industries there.

"In clause seven, Belgium admitted in a formula which allowed for nationalization of property in Russia on condition that its use should be granted to the old proprietors, or when this was impossible, compensation be given them."

"M. Cettier, our legal expert, simply assisted in compiling clause seven on the request of Mr. Lloyd George."

Federal Judges at New York File Dissolution Order Saying American Sugar Refining Co. and Others Have Abandoned Acts Complain Of.

ACTION COMES AFTER 12-YEAR WAIT

Attorney-General Last Year Forecast Step Now Taken, Saying Company No Longer Had Monopoly in Business.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Federal Judges Rogers, Hough and Manton today filed a dissolution order (a consent decree) against the American Sugar Refining Co. and other corporate and individual defendants in the Government's Sherman law suit, begun 12 years ago.

During the 12-year wait, caused in large part by a decision to await rules of the United States Supreme Court, in the Stoll and Harvester Trust cases, the defendant corporations in the Sugar Trust case have "abandoned their combination and conspiracy to restrain trade and commerce, and to monopolize the business of manufacturing and dealing in refined sugar," said the decree.

The companies named in the petition were the American Sugar Refining Co., the National Sugar Refining Co. of New Jersey, the Great Western Sugar Co. of Chicago, and the Michigan Sugar Co. of Detroit.

It was held by the court that evidence taken in 1919, when the petition of dissolution was filed by the Government, showed that at that time the American Sugar Refining Co. owned voting control in all of the companies named. Since then, however, the parent concern, voluntarily, has given up that control and now owns only small minorities and has no membership on the directorship of the companies.

Suit Filed in 1910.
The Federal Government instituted the suit against the American Sugar Refining Co. and 23 other companies, constituting an alleged "sugar trust" in 1910.

It was alleged that the 30 companies, with a capital of $285,000,000, controlled a large per cent of the sugar output in the United States and thus was able to fix prices arbitrarily. It was further alleged that the companies oppressed competitors and "ground" them out of existence.

In December, 1921, Attorney-General Daugherty announced an intention to dispose of the suit by a decree, stating that after several months of investigation of the American Sugar Refining Co., he had reached the conclusion that the company no longer was a monopoly by trust.

He declared that, whereas in 1910 the company had controlled about 72 per cent of the refined sugar industry, its control had decreased to 24 per cent. In view of this fact, Daugherty stated, he felt that the public could be assured that "the price for sugar in the future will be the result of natural unrestrained competition."

Tried to Trip Policeman.
"I took him to the coal office of Charles Quale, 405 East Prairie avenue, which is across the street from the patrol box. Realizing that the prisoner would escape if he got a chance, I asked Quale to telephone for the patrol wagon. Just as Quale left the office, the prisoner tried to trip me and then ran out through a rear door and headed for the railroad yards."

"I commanded him to halt and then fired over his head. He continued running and I aimed at him, firing two shots. I was sure I had hit him, but he continued his flight. I did not want to kill him. As he reached a negro's shack at 6014 North Sixth street he tried to climb the fence but collapsed."

"I was a block behind him and when I reached the fence patrolman Proske, who had been attracted by the shots, came up. We assisted the prisoner from the fence and laid him on the ground. He looked at me and said: 'Well, you got me,' and then he became unconscious."

EUROPE STIRRED BY ATTACK OF LONDON TIMES ON PREMIER

If Genoa Conference Ends in Fiasco, Lloyd George Will Fasten All Blame on Northcliffe's Editor.

REPORT THAT ENTENTE IS ENDED REPUDIATED

Leader Denounces Wickham Steed's Statement as Malicious Invention; Even French Alarmed.

By JAMES M. TOTHY.
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, May 9.—The vendetta of Lord Northcliffe's London Times against Prime Minister Lloyd George has now flared up into a first-class European sensation.

It is quite clear that, if the Genoa conference ends in a fiasco, the Premier and the Government are determined to fasten the blame for all the consequences on the London Times. The pro-French attitude of H. Wickham Steed, the editor, has become more and more pronounced as the conference has proceeded, until today the French Government itself shows distinct alarm at the length to which his advocacy of their cause has led him.

In the House of Commons yesterday Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader, was able to say that Premier Lloyd George himself had repudiated the charge that he had repudiated the Entente was attributed to Louis Barthou by Steed. The statement, which the editor sent to his paper from Genoa yesterday, was to the effect that Lloyd George told M. Barthou in an interview Saturday that the Entente was at an end.

Called a Malicious Invention. Chamberlain said that he had been asked by the Premier to say that the story was a deliberate and malicious invention. The Government leader added, in answer to a question, that he had no reason to suppose that the relation of Britain and France were imperiled by the discussion at Genoa.

There is no expression of any sympathy in the House with the Times' policy, although there is considerable section of the Tories who place preservation of the Entente before any other international question. There seemed to be a general feeling that the Times had gone too far, especially as France herself desired apparently to modify her domineering attitude.

Lloyd George, whether he succeeds or fails at Genoa, has played his cards with conspicuous ability and adroitness. He is unquestionably in a stronger position both in Parliament and in the country than when he went to Genoa. This seems to be mainly due to the revulsion of feeling caused by the rapidly pro-French line pursued by the Times. The paper is regarded as showing insufficient regard for the interests of peace which Lloyd George is endeavoring to promote in the face of immense difficulties.

The sentiment of the country apart from the militarist clique, which is really a negligible quantity, is for peace. There is acute apprehension of the consequences to Europe should French policy render the British Premier's efforts to that end nugatory.

General Election for June. Lloyd George is understood to plan a general election for June. It is apparent that the result of his conduct of affairs at Genoa will render his success more than ever certain.

When he appears before the House to justify himself, he will command the support not only of the Independent Liberals but of the Labor Party and the whole Tory strength, except that of the militarist faction. This should afford him an ideal chance of sweeping the country and getting into power for several more years.

This cannot be considered a happy result for the Times, which has worked with unflinching pertinacity to discredit and defeat him. But it is quite evident that both parties to the quarrel will fight it out to a finish.

It is believed the French Government is now beginning to realize that British feeling is behind the Prime Minister, not the Times, and that if he should be compelled to declare the entente at an end, he will have the backing of the country in any course he may pursue to attain by other means, even by separate treaties, the ends for which he went to Genoa.

Despite the French threat to take military measures against Germany if she does not meet the next reparations payment, May 21, the belief here is that there will be a modification of the French attitude before that time.

The view in financial quarters here and it is held regardless of the fact that the Poincare government refuse to participate in a meeting of Versailles signatories before June. Germany's belated announcement that her finance ministry had found that taxation had brought in 35,000,000,000 marks more revenue than had been expected, is regarded as giving the French military a point for their argu-

Striking Caricatures of Three of Russia's Spokesmen, Made at the Genoa Conference

KRASSIN

INTIMATE caricatures of leaders in the Russian soviet delegation at the Genoa conference have been obtained by the Post-Dispatch from Usa Gombert, a Russian painter and caricaturist, who has arrived in New York after many adventures.

His journey from Kieff occupied three years. He left the Ukraine intending to come to America in 1919, but was detained several times by pogroms and other misfortunes. Before coming here he went to Genoa, where he made the caricatures of the soviet delegates and others.

Those printed today are of Leonid Krassin, Adolph Joffe and Christian Rakovsky. Krassin, who is the business man of the soviet diplomatic corps, was never a convinced Communist, but when the soviet had to deal with "capitalist" countries and their financiers, his abilities in handling large affairs was pressed into service.

Since then he has handled most of the important negotiations with foreign countries, looking toward trade resumption. He has also held important offices in the internal administration of Russia.

A member of a bourgeois family, Krassin was before the war connected with a number of foreign business enterprises in Russia.

He has negotiated trade agreements with Great Britain and a number of Russia's neighbors, and was frequently sent to consult with men that threats will produce the goods where nothing else will.

LONDON Times Editor Unmoved by Lloyd George's Denial.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 9.—Henry Wickham Steed, the Times' representative at Genoa, says he is entirely unmoved by Lloyd George's denial to Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader, of the grave statements he made to M. Barthou Saturday.

"It can only be a matter of form," Steed adds. "There is no doubt whatever that the Premier clearly gave M. Barthou to understand that inasmuch as France had preferred Belgium's friendship to Britain's he must not be surprised if Britain regarded the Entente as at an end and considered herself free to pursue and conclude other friendships."

"It appears that M. Barthou, in duty bound, telegraphed immediately to Premier Poincare that Lloyd George employed language of exceptional gravity. . . . There is no short-hand report of interviews like Saturday's. The persons present take notes or make minutes from memory, in which the spirit of the statements made often disappears and actual phrases are sometimes twisted so that they do not reflect affirming that the substance of Lloyd George's words Saturday was as I gave it and he afterwards repeated his statements to others. Indirectly he has repeatedly made analogous or identical statements both privately and officially during the conference."

Denies Changing Stand. "I must recall that I compiled that section of the Cannes resolution respecting foreign property, and that, including Mr. Lloyd George, agreed in interpreting it in the sense that the soviet must return foreign properties except when physically impossible. Mr. Lloyd George expressed himself in the same sense in the House of Commons on April 2. "My amendment to clause seven is a textual reproduction, word by word, of the section approved by the English experts in London in their report regarding foreign property in Russia. Therefore, it is not I who have changed."

Many difficulties worse than this have been passed and we shall pass this one," said Lloyd George to the correspondents last night after a frantic day, in which he conferred with nearly all the leading figures at the conference. "We have come to Genoa to overcome such differences; otherwise, why have the conference?"

The Russian attack denouncing the French and Belgians for the attempt to break up the conference and calling attention to the fact that these two countries are trying to make it appear that everything hinges on the Russian reply while they themselves have not endorsed the very document they are discussing, caused much discussion among both the French and Belgian delegates, but apparently they will not reply.

Signor Schanzer and other Italian representatives labored all day trying to reconcile the disagreement, but seemingly with no success. Lloyd George appeared yesterday afternoon at a meeting which had been arranged for the British and American correspondents, apparently for the purpose chiefly of denying reports appearing in British and French papers that Lloyd George and M. Barthou came near the breaking point Saturday and that the British Prime Minister had virtually announced that the entente was finished and that France and England must go their separate ways.

Lloyd George declared that the differences between him and M. Barthou in no sense constituted a break between the allies and that the stenographic records of their efforts here have been directed toward the success of the meeting, while everyone, including Mr. Lloyd

German, Swedish and even French business men. Between times he served as Minister of Munitions, Minister of Railroads and Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Christian Rakovsky, who has been giving the soviet point of view to the press, is generally considered the most irremovable of the delegates. During his negotiations as the Russian representative on the Financial Commission Rakovsky has repeatedly indicated he is in favor of yielding nothing.

Rakovsky was a member of the Bolshevik Peace Commission which negotiated the treaty of Brest-Litovsk. Then he became president of the soviet of the Ukraine, the most important of the so-called independent republics associated with the Moscow Government.

Joffe is the treaty maker of the Russian party, having been chairman of the peace commissions that negotiated the Brest-Litovsk treaty with Germany and the treaty of Riga with Poland.

After the Brest-Litovsk treaty was signed Joffe became Bolshevik Ambassador to Berlin. In the November, 1918, revolution he was expelled but returned later.

Smith said he had been informed that Guerin, while in jail pending action in the extradition case, had heard of Smith's connection with May, and he said he would kill him when he got out. He also said that Guerin suspected May of turning him up to the police, and that Guerin had threatened, on that account, to kill her.

Charged, however, that Smith knew of May's devotion to the older man, and attempted to assassinate him out of jealousy.

Smith was given a life sentence, and the woman, charged as an accessory to the assault, was sentenced to 15 years in prison. ## CLEANUP ORDER BY POLICE CHIEF OF EAST ST. LOUIS

Mulconery Tells His Men That Bootlegger, Gambler and Immoral Resort Must Disappear.

The bootlegger, the gambler and the immoral resort must disappear, Chief of Police Mulconery of East St. Louis said today in a general order to members of the department. He said he wanted the city "cleaned up" and "kept clean," and that if the present police force wouldn't do it, he would get one that would.

The order was typewritten, posted in the assembly hall, and read at roll call. To a Post-Dispatch reporter the Chief remarked: "We've got a Police Board now that won't interfere with me in doing what I want to do toward cleaning up the city." He referred to the appointment of a new board to replace the one which deposed and asked for the resignations of Mulconery's Chief of Detectives Nevill and several other officers, following the death of John Campbell, a prisoner, alleged to have resulted from the application of third-degree methods.

Had the previous board interfered with Chief Mulconery's plans to clean up East St. Louis? he was asked. He refused to make any further comment.

The new board met and organized last night, after John W. Maher, a commission member, had been named to fill the vacancy left by the refusal of James P. Flannery to serve. Dr. J. L. Wiggins was elected president, and Thomas L. Gregory, secretary.

The board took no other action save to ask Corporation Counsel Leroy Browning for a legal opinion on the legality of the former board's acts.

The text of Chief Mulconery's order follows: "This city must be cleaned up and kept clean. By that I mean that all forms of gambling—handbooks, slot machines, crap games, poker games, etc.—must cease. All immoral resorts must be closed and the inmates arrested, and the bootlegger must go out of business in East St. Louis. I shall expect each and every officer to do his best in cleaning up the city, or else some of you will find men in your places who are willing and not afraid to work. I know I have given you this order time and time again, but this one time I am going to get results."

The "cleaning" process was begun last night by the newly appointed morality squad, which arrested 32 women. Chief Mulconery himself took a walk through the "valley" district last night, but did not say whether he witnessed any conditions to warrant action by his men.

St. Louis Man Haled Into Chicago Court on Wife's Charges of Nonsupport.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Charles Mellon, New Market Bank Building, St. Louis, was brought into court today charged with nonsupport and Mrs. Mellon brought in a stack of letters a foot high.

"What are those?" asked the Judge.

"Love letters," said Mrs. Mellon. "He gets them from every city in the country."

"Who are they from?" the Judge asked Mellon.

"Well," was the reply, "some are from Mammie, in Washington; Guselle, in Centerville, O.; Claire, in Chillicothe, Tenn.; Mae, in Pittsburgh; Dollie, in this city, and."

"That's enough," broke in the Judge. "Pay your wife $75 the first of every month."

Mellon moved here from Chicago three weeks ago and is an insurance salesman. He resides at the Delmonte Hotel.

CHURCH CONVENTION CHEERS FOR WILSON

Methodist Episcopal Conference at Hot Springs Praises "Apostle of Democracy and Peace."

By the Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 9.—Hailing Woodrow Wilson as "the apostle of modern democracy and world peace," clerical and lay delegates to the nineteenth quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, staged a demonstration here today in the former President's honor that officials said was unique in the church's annals.

The scene resembled a political meeting more than a church conference, as those present, even the more elderly Bishops, arose to their feet so they could cheer louder. It was several minutes before the presiding officers could stop the hubbub and bring the convention back to order, after which it adopted, with shouts of acclamation, a resolution extending greetings to Mr. Wilson and pledging the conference to the promotion of the great truths he has so ably set forth."

The resolution also extended the conference's congratulations to President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes for the achievements of the Washington armament conference, and pledged support to "all measures looking toward the establishment of peace on earth and good will toward men."

RUSSIAN PROBLEM DISCUSSED BY CABINET

Proceedings at Genoa Said to Agree With Views of State Department.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A discussion of the Russian problem as it is affected by the negotiations at Genoa, occupied most of today's session of the cabinet. It developed an opinion that the attitude of the Allied Governments toward the Soviet regime had shaped up at Genoa to virtual agreement with the policies of the United States.

After the cabinet meeting it was said by administration officials that there had been general agreement among the cabinet members that the work now proceeding at Genoa was going forward largely along lines which had previously been laid down by the State Department.

By the same administration spokesman a hope was expressed that the solution of the whole Russian problem might be reached at Genoa. It was added that should the conference fail the United States would have to go ahead independently in adjusting its relations with Russia.

It was reiterated the basic principles which had been set forth as conditions for resumption of relations with Russia remained unchanged. Nothing which had transpired at Genoa, it was said, had changed the position of the United States. As a consequence, officials said, if the Genoa conference failed in the solution, the United States, in its relations to the soviet, would be exactly where it was before.

In commenting on the work of the conference, officials avoided any reference to the differences which had developed between the French and British representatives, confining their recommendations to the general work of the conference, as far as it has progressed.

GOLDSTEIN CASE TO BE CONSIDERED BY FULL COMMITTEE

McCumber Says "Charges Have Made It Necessary That This Course Be Pursued."

HARRISON TAKES NEW DIGS AT REPUBLICAN

"How Long Will This Practice Last of Holding Secret Sessions," Democrat Leader Asks.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.

20 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Harrison of Mississippi, head of the fight against the confirmation of Nat Goldstein as Collector of Internal Revenue at St. Louis, got in a more dire dig at his Republican colleagues in the Senate today.

He elicited the information from Senator McCumber of North Dakota, Republican, chairman of the Finance Committee, that "charges" against Goldstein had made it necessary that the nomination be given "full consideration" by the entire committee membership, both Republicans and Democrats.

McCumber said the committee was now so busy with the tariff that it could not tell when the Goldstein case would be formally taken up.

Harrison got the floor immediately after the Senate convened and berating at the Republican members of the Finance Committee for having met behind closed doors to consider the "Goldstein" matter.

"How long," asked Harrison, "this practice last of the Republic members of the Finance Committee holding secret sessions to determine the policy of Congress? They do on the basis, and now they are doing it in this Goldstein matter."

Harrison then sent to the desk a telegram he had received from Board of Presidents of the St. Louis League of Women Voters, congratulating him on his stand against Goldstein and declaring that the active of the Circuit Clerk in the Low campaign, the courthouse ring of Louis, and the Hank Weeks realization case had proved his usefulness for public office.

The telegram (printed in the Post-Dispatch yesterday) was addressed to Harrison by the reading clerk, Senator Poindexter of the Republic of Washington attempted to discuss the discussion into another chamber, but Harrison returned to the at as soon as he saw that the McCumber Shoulders Burden. Looking at the Republican Harrison said he was waiting for answer to his question as to the intentions of the Finance Committee. He noticed that several members of the committee were present, he said, and it seemed to him that ought to get a reply.

McCumber shouldered the burden, he said, and he seemed to him that working hard on the tariff bill, that as soon as it got a little time consider the Goldstein nomination would do my share."

"The Republican members of committee are meeting daily from 11 to 11," he said, "to consider the bill. At those meetings any star is entitled to be present to sent his views on matters relating the tariff. Yesterday, Senator Goldstein came in to see us about Goldstein nomination and also to see the Finance Committee. There was no invitation to him to speak about the Gold case, but if any Senator comes before me and wants to talk, I will do my share."

He assured Harrison that the Goldstein case was taken would be before a full meeting of the committee.

Laugh From Galleries. "Then it is true," persisted Harrison, "that the Republican members did hear Senator Spencer?"

McCumber replied that only members of the committee are present.

"Was any action taken on the bill?" asked Harrison. "The answer," he said, "was no action."

Harrison said he understood the committee at one time discussed the favorable vote and then considered.

McCumber reiterated the formal action had been taken explained that, following the practice, a member of the committee had been designated on the basis of the Finance Committee from which the nomination was made, and that this member reported that Senator Reed was in full consideration by the entire committee before any kind of action taken."

"That," he said, "is the only the committee has had. The before the committee any course, those charges necessary full consideration by the entire committee before any kind of action taken."

Senator Spencer was present did not speak.

Spencer's Senate Statement. Senator Spencer late last gave out the following statement in connection with the Goldstein case:

"There seems to be a determination to camouflage facts in the nomination of Mr. Goldstein. Mr. Goldstein is now a man of the people, clerk of the suit Court at St. Louis."

Nat Goldstein Tearing Up Check by Which He Returned $2500 to Lowden

THIS photograph was made by a Chicago Tribune staff photographer, July 7, 1920, in Chicago, just after Goldstein had finished his testimony before the Senatorial Investigating Committee that was inquiring into the huge funds that were being used by the managers of some of the Republican aspirants for the nomination for the Presidency, to line up delegates for their respective favorites. Goldstein a few minutes before had shown the canceled check for the amount drawn against his personal account by which he said he had returned the $2500 he had received. When he left the witness stand and returned to a seat in the audience, he smilingly tore the canceled check to bits.

twice been elected to this office by a tremendous majority. It is conceded on every hand that his conduct as a public official is of the highest, both for courtesy and efficiency and honesty. I have known him for 25 years and the record of a quarter of the century shall not be impaired by misrepresentation, if I can help it.

"When Gov. Lowden was in his prevention campaign in 1920, his friends sought help in Missouri, as they had a right to do. The Republican National Committee of Missouri told Mr. Goldstein that Gov. Lowden would be glad to pay any legitimate expense connected with primaries or convention activities. Mr. Goldstein at once replied that there was no need of money in his district and that he did not want any money. He further said that the only time he could ever use money was to conduct the necessary work incident to registration and the canvass of voters that then had to be made.

"Some weeks later, without any solicitation from Mr. Goldstein, the friends of Gov. Lowden sent $2500 to Mr. Goldstein to be used for registration or for any other legitimate purpose for which Mr. Goldstein might use it. This was in January, 1920. Mr. Goldstein, after some hesitation, said: 'I will take this money and keep it intact, and if
Mr. Lowden is nominated I will turn it over to the regular organization, to be used for registration expenses
—if he is not nominated, I will return it.'

"Gov. Lowden was not nominated and the money was promptly returned by Mr. Goldstein. It is difficult to understand the fervid extensions that seem to have been caused by the simple facts as I have outlined them."

BLIZZARD TOLD MINERS TO YIELD, TWO TESTIFY

Mine Superintendent and Army Officer on Stand—State to Call More Witnesses.

By the Associated Press.
CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 9.—
A large number of State witnesses are still to be called in the trial on the case of William Blizard, president of the mine union subdistrict, and alleged to have been one of the leaders in the attack on Logan County, C. W. Osement of the State counsel said today, expressing doubt that it would be possible to rest the State's case this week.

H. L. Fisher of Blair, mine superintendent of the Boone County Coal Corporation, was on the stand when court adjourned last night.
Fisher told of the closing of his mine by order of armed men, and also testified as to a speech he heard Blizard make from the steps of the Blair schoolhouse, the miners' headquarters during the fighting. Blizard, according to the witness, told the men to surrender to the Federal troops when they came in, but to be proud and to stand up to the soldiers. This was about two days before the troops arrived, he said.

Hearing on Bail Pleas.
The hearing on bail for eight defendants, who have been held in the county jail under charges of murder,
a 1 were the only ones not released on bond, when the cases were transferred to this county.

Capt. John J. Wilson, commander of the first troops to enter the trouble area, testified yesterday he reached Madison with a company of 175 men on Sept. 2 and, after throwing out guards, held conferences with county officers and with Blizard and other representatives of the miners' union. He told the latter he was too busy to waste time with anybody unless he was assured it was the "right party." He got such assurance and Blizard declared if the captain and a squad of men would accompany him he would "bring the men down from the line" without bloodshed.

He heard Blizard give no orders,
he said, but he saw the result of them when he received a bullet in the arm. He said he saw Blizard stand on a hill directing the men to deliver up their arms.

"Glad the Game Was Up." Under cross-examination, the captain said Blizard showed no an-tagonism toward the Federal troops and that "without him it would have been a ticklish job" to disarm them.
Speaking of his inquiries as to the cause of the disorder and the attitude of the men, Capt. Wilson said it was the general impression they were "glad the game was up" and the Federal troops were coming in.

"They were obsessed," he said,
"with the thought that the 'thugs'
from Logan were bent on destroying their homes and killing their women and children."

Frank Mitchell of Marmet, union miner, testified that before the "Mother" Jones meeting on Aug. 24, he was "conscripted" to join the miners. He told about the speech and the subsequent start of the marchers contrary to her advice.

He returned home after the first march, Mitchell testified, and went to Blair in the second one. He was twice on the firing line and told of seeing Blizard at headquarters in Blair and hearing him advise the men to "go get them."

Airplane Bomb Exhibited.
State and defense entered exhibits from the trouble zone involved in last year's march. Three military rifles, from among those taken by Federal troops, from the miners.
They were placed in evidence by the State and the defense countered with the case of a bomb it claimed had been dropped by airplane on the miners' line.

Adjutant General Charnock testified he had seen this bomb in a store window in Charles Town and heard it said that it was one dropped by an airplane during the fighting.
Asked if the talk was not that the bomb had been dropped among women and children, Gen. Charnock said he had heard nothing of that.

P. L. Reed of Edwight, who was treasurer of the Raleigh-Wyomac Burial Fund, testified that four armed members of the local union ordered him to sign five blank checks by use of which $575 was drawn from the fund. After the march Reed said he started out to recover the money but it was settled out of court on the condition that he surrender the canceled checks.

Part of City Hospital No. 2
CALLED FIRETRAP BY JORDAN
Two Hours Required to Take Negroes Out Under Favorable Conditions, Commission Reports.

A part of City Hospital No. 2, at Garrison and Lawton avenues, used for housing aged and infirm negro patients, was condemned as a fire trap by Hospital Commissioner Jordan, in his report to the Director of Public Welfare, made public today.

The aged negroes, Commissioner Jordan says, are housed on the first floor of the old Barnes Medical College building, and in the basement.
On the occasion of an outing given them, he said, it took two hours to get the inmates out under normal conditions.

"We do not dare to go above the first floor," he said. "In the event of fire, loss of life would result, for which we could not hold ourselves blameless."

He recommends that additional ground be obtained at the present city hospital site, probably on the north, by condemning Carroll street, between Fourteenth and Dolman streets, and that a fireproof hospital for negroes be added as a unit of the present hospital.

St. Lawrence Water Project—The matter has been complicated by the recommendation of the Interstate Joint Commission that the project be referred to expert engineers. Representations of a diplomatic nature have been made. The question is unsettled.

B. F. YOAKUM ELECTED TO DIRECTORATE OF THE FRISCO

Former President of Road to Move to St. Louis and Work for Upbuilding of the Line.

Benson F. Yoakum, former president of the Frisco Railroad, inter chairman of the board of directors, was elected to the board of directors of the road at the annual stockholders' meeting, held today at the company's offices in the Frisco Building.

Yoakum has not been connected with the road since the reorganization, which followed the receivership of 1915. He said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter, at the Planters Hotel, that he intended to make
St. Louis his headquarters in future, and would plan for the upbuilding of the road. He would not say whether he expects to be elected chairman of the board. It is understood that Yoakum has a considerable support on the board. With him, A. G. Becker of Chicago, a private banker, was elected to the board.

S. O. Levinson of Chicago, an attorney, who was with Yoakum, said that Yoakum and Becker received the largest votes in the election of directors, and that 606,794 shares were voted for Yoakum. This included a block of 578,000 shares which has been held under a trust-deed since the reorganization, but which has now been released.

The official announcement of the election given out at headquarters of the road, stated that Yoakum and Becker were "nominated by the minority and elected by cumulative voting." They take the places of T. D.
Reed of New York and Lorenzo Semple of New York. The other directors, including President Kurn, were elected.

Missouri Pacific Elects Directors.
The following directors of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. were elected for the ensuing year at the annual meeting of the stockholders today:
Harry Bronner, Benjamin F. Bush,
Matthew C. Brush, Bertram Cutler, Arthur V. Davis, John G. Drew,
Charles E. Ingersoll, William T.
Kemper, William H. Lee, John G.
Lonsdale, Edgar L. Marston, Owen
Root, Charles H. Sabin, Finley J.
Shoemaker, Herbert L. Utter, R. Lancaster Williams and William H. Williams.

BROTHER AND SISTER
NIGHT ON THE RADIO

K S D Listeners Hear About
Work of Two Clubs—
Music Appreciated.

There are thousands of potential good citizens in America who now are juvenile delinquents, "bad" boys and girls who can be easily changed into industrious children if they only can feel that somebody cares. This statement was made by two speakers on the program of Radio Station K S D of the Post-Dispatch last night in connection with the work of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of St. Louis. These two organizations, one composed of business men who care about friendless little fellows swarming about the streets, and the other a group of motherly women whose purpose is to befriend lonely girls who have no one to whom they can go, were described, respectively, by Martin J.
Collins, vice president of the Big Brothers organization, and Mrs. G.
V. R. Mechin, president of the Big Sisters.

"It takes only $14.75 to make a juvenile delinquent into a good citizen," declared Collins; "less than you would have to pay for a fat pig.
The impossible office boy of today may be the captain of industry tomorrow, a credit to his city and his nation. The Big Brothers are busy business men who are making raw material into good American citizens. That raw material is the American boy. And he needs attention."

"We are going to hear a lot about the Big Brothers from now on.
There is a wave of juvenile delinquency sweeping over the country, and it is time the business man stopped in his mad rush and went to work to head off this deluge. It may be the boy on your own block who is delinquent. It may be one farther away. But wherever he is, there is the place to stop him."

Last year the Big Brothers of St. Louis took 900 boys from the juvenile court, and thus far only the same number have been sent to the city. The Big Brothers are busy business men who are making raw
material into good American citizens. That raw material is the American boy. And he needs attention."

FLORIDA COURT RULES AGAINST CROCKER'S SON

Supreme Court Affirms Decision That Political Leader Was Competent to Handle Affairs.

By the Associated Press.
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 9.—The Supreme Court of Florida yesterday affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court for Palm Beach County, in which the late Richard Crocker was declared to be competent to handle his affairs. The case involved a suit brought by Howard Crocker, a son, seeking to annul the action of the father in turning his property over to his wife.

Howard Crocker alleged that the elder Crocker's wife had used undue influence over him and that he was mentally incapacitated to dispose of his property.

Crocker, several years ago, gave considerable property to his wife, and some reports from Ireland since his death have been to the effect that the action disposed of most of his property. The court's opinion declared that no evidence had been presented before the lower court to justify the allegation that Mrs. Bula E. Crocker exercised undue influence in obtaining the transfer of the property to her right. The question of Crocker's mental capacity had been decided by the lower court, the opinion held, after hearing competent witnesses, and since his capacity had been determined, the children had no right to interfere, if their rights had not been invaded.

14 PRISONERS WOUNDED WHEN 150 CONVICTS RIOT IN PRISON

South Carolina Penitentiary Scene of Armed Protest Against Wearing Stripes.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBIA, S. C., May 9.—Fourteen prisoners were wounded, two possibly fatally, yesterday when 150 inmates of the South Carolina penitentiary revolted. At the same time the chair factory building, where the uprising occurred, was set on fire, but the recalcitrants were put down and the blaze extinguished speedily. The outbreak was said to have been the culmination of dissatisfaction existing for several weeks.

The trouble arose at the lunch hour, when 150 prisoners refused to enter the chair factory for the afternoon's work and, armed with sticks and knives, advanced, according to prison authorities, on the guards. The guards, it was added, then opened fire. Prison officials said that about three weeks ago more than 100 knives, razors, bayonets and blackjacks were found among prisoners. Orders were then issued to deprive the men of their civilian clothes ordinarily worn in the penitentiary and to have the prisoners wear the stripes. The orders were said to have caused dissatisfaction.

DEATH PENALTY FOR 8 PRIESTS, TWO LAYMEN AND ONE WOMAN

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, May 9.—Eight priests, two laymen and one woman were sentenced to death here yesterday for having opposed the requisitioning of church treasures and for alleged participation in disturbances. All of them have a right of appeal to the Supreme Tribunal.

Twenty-nine other persons were sentenced to imprisonment for various periods running up to five years. Twenty of the defendants on trial before the court were clergymen. The trials lasted nearly two weeks.

TARIFF SUSPENSION

REPEAL ADVOCATED

Chamber's Traffic Head Says Commission Has More Power Than Intended.

The repeal of that section of the transportation act permitting the Interstate Commerce Commission to suspend freight tariffs was advocated yesterday by P. W. Coyle, traffic commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, in a speech before the St. Louis Traffic Club in the Planters Hotel. He said that the repeal would lessen bureaucratic control of transportation.

"I would suggest the repeal," Coyle said, "in order that the railroads might have greater initiative. If this provision of the law was ever of substantial benefit to the public its days of usefulness have passed. It has been the source of many long and tedious causes of litigation, and with doubtful results as to the public good. I say 'expensive to the shippers' for in the last analysis the public pays the freight. The expense of the legal department, as well as the expense of all other departments of the railroads, go into operating expenses, and operating expenses go into rates, hence the vicious circle that ends in the pocket of the shipper.

MAN KILLS SELF IN SPOTLIGHT

Forlorn for Actress Love, Doctor
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Dr. Alfred H. Riedel, eye specialist, separated from his wife, had long been infatuated with a Broadway chorus girl. He poisoned himself for her love yesterday, dying with an improvised spotlight glaring on his face. His body was covered with a black bathrobe as a pall, and an electric reading lamp was turned full on the pallid countenance. Police were told Dr. Riedel had been despondent because the actress wouldn't take his advances seriously.

LUSITANIA GOLD IS OBJECTIVE

Salvaging Expedition Will Leave Philadelphia May 25.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—An expedition for salvaging the Lusitania and other ships that have sunk in the last few years will start from this city May 25. The steamship Blakeley has been chartered by the Lusitania Salvaging Co. Estimates of gold that lies at the bottom of the sea run into the millions. A single passenger alone deposited $75,000 with the purser of the Lusitania, while Mrs. Antoine de Page, wife of the medical director of the Belgian Red Cross, carried more than $100,000.

Permission to arrange an exhibition tour was asked for today of the American Association by the Todd Shipyards Club.

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tested cases, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin by adding 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how naturally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

PROGRESSIVE PREMIER FOR CHINA ADVOCATED

New Cabinet Head Probably Will Be Man Familiar With Affairs of Western World.

By the Associated Press.
PEKING, May 9.—President Hsu Shih Chang and Acting Premier Chow Tsu-Chi conferred yesterday with representatives of Gen. Wu Pei-fu to consider formation of a new cabinet. The opinion was expressed that China required a progressive government headed by a young Chinese familiar with affairs of the Western world. Gen. Wong Shi Cheng, who at one time was head of the government, was offered the premiership. He is regarded as the choice of Wu Pei-fu. Gen. Wong pleaded that old age disqualified him. He declared that China needed vigorous young men to cope with the world problems.

Dr. Koo Mentioned.
One party favors the selection of the Premier from the three Chinese delegates at the Washington conference. Dr. Wellington Koo, who is now at Hongkong on his way to Peking, is mentioned. It is said to be almost certain that a foreign-educated Chinese will be named as Premier. There have been rumors of a return of S. Alfred Stearns from his post as Minister at Washington.

Responding to an appeal from the Government, the foreign legations authorized the release of $300,000 in Chinese customs to pay $3,000 of Gen. Chang Tso-Lin's defeated soldiers, captured in the vicinity of the capital.

A message from Mukden, the seat of Chang's Manchurian stronghold, said the General attributed his defeat at the hands of Gen. Wu Pei-fu's forces to defection of some of the former's important officers. The Manchurian army is declared to be completely disorganized and incapable of further resistance.

Cavalry Division Surrenders.
The last organized body of Chang's troops, the Second Cavalry Division, surrendered and gave up its arms eight miles from Tientsin early Monday. The defeated men were given new clothing and $5 each. They also were allowed to retain their horses and were promised transportation to their homes.

The foreign military commanders at Tientsin reconsidered their decision of Sunday ordering Gen. Wu to leave Tientsin and vetoing his use of the railways for the transportation of his troops. Wu received deputations of officials and the gentry yesterday afternoon.

The long-awaited rainfall came yesterday. It is regarded generally in Chinese circles as a great omen.

PAINT SPILLED ON PASSENGERS AND SEATS BY PAINTER IN CAR

Charges of Drunkenness and Peace Disturbance Lodged Against

Kirkwood Man.
A job of interior decorating which had not been ordered by the United Railways management was performed on a Wellington car yesterday, when John Branton of Kirkwood, a painter, spilled the contents of a can of paint on several seats and upon the clothing of some of the passengers.

One of the passengers, Jerome Sherman of 2525 Dickson street, said his clothes were ruined, and preferred a police court charge against Branton, who was taken to the city hospital. Branton said he staggered in the aisle because of the motion of the car, but the hospital physicians discovered another possible reason, and the police added a charge of drunkenness to that of peace disturbance. The car had to be turned in for cleaning of the seats.

U. S. VIEW ON RUSSIAN TRADE PACTS SET OUT

Child, London Paper States, Says America Can't Be Ignored
in Any Agreements.

By the Associated Press.
GENOA, May 9.—The principal European delegations here have received unmistakable hints by the American Ambassador, Richard Washburn Child, that the United States maintains its consistent standpoint regarding any private or general arrangement for commercial and industrial privileges in Russia, and that no such arrangements can be recognized by the United States, says Henry Wickham Stead, editor of the Times of London.

He adds that whatever agreement has been or may be made must be affected by the American attitude, unless and until equality of industrial opportunity in Russia is assured on principles and by means which the United States can recognize.

The correspondent understands that much British oil interests in South Russia have suggested to the British delegation the expediency of establishing a special petroleum council alongside the Genoa conference, and said that, were such a council to be constituted, and were it to include the leading companies, its proceedings might speedily eclipse those of the main conference.

As regards the Standard Oil Co., the correspondent says its distinct status in the Russian oil negotiations "certainly gives point" to the support lent by the United States to the French and Belgian attitude regarding private property in Russia, and also to the polite intimation which the leading delegations received from Child.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage
Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darken your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

SLATE-MAKING BY REPUBLICANS NOT SO OPEN THIS YEAR

City Committeemen Said to Have Made Choice Among Candidates for Most De- sirable Jobs

State-making for the August primary is not being practiced so openly by members of the Republican City Committee as was done two years ago. Machine support, in that case, proved not to be an asset to some of the aspirants for nomination.

But the committeemen have their choices among the prospective candidates, and the selective process has gone far enough to indicate
where the support of the committee will go, in the case of some of the most desirable nominations.

Nine candidates for Circuit Judges are to be named, and it is believed that Judges Charles B. Davis, Wilson A. Taylor, Harry A. Hamilton and John W. Calhoun will be supported by the greater part of the organization.

Some support for four judges.
Four other judges, C. W. Rutledge, Franklin Ferriss, H. H. Falkenheimer and B. J. Kline, who will be candidates in the primary, will have some support from the committee, but it does not now appear
that any of them will have a majority of the committee with him.
The ninth of the retiring judges,
Judge V. W. Garesche, is considered
as being slated for a Federal district
judgeship.

For Collectors of the Revenue, Collector Edmund Koehn probably will be supported by at least one-half the committeemen. If Mayor
Kiel were to undertake an active fight on Koehn, this situation might be changed, but the Mayor is said to have no such intention.

License Collector Oliver G. Chapman probably will be supported by
the organization for re-nomination.
He got the nomination four years
ago over the opposition of the committee.

Tammie for Recorder of Deeds.
William Tammie, Alderman of the Sixth Ward, is considered the committee favorite for the nomination
for Recorder of Deeds.

Al Thompson, now Chief Deputy
under Assessor Buder, will be a candidate against Buder and Louis
Wollbrink, former Assessor, for this nomination. Because of the commissions allowed in connection with the State income tax, this office is the most lucrative in the city. Bud-er, Mayor Kiel appointed Buder because of his friendship for Buder's brother,
G. A. Buder, owner of the St. Louis
Times. Whether the Mayor will work in Assessor Buder's behalf with
the committee, has not appeared thus far. At present, a number of the committeemen appear to prefer Thompson to either Buder or Wol-
lbrink.

Herman Bader, clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes, and committeeman of the Twenty-first Ward, will have the support of at least 20 committeemen for re-nomination.

Circuit Clerkship in Doubt.
As to the other nominations, including that for the office of Circuit Clerk, the committeemen are undetermined. In the case of the circuit clerkship, the most important question is whether the Senate confirms the appointment of Nat Goldstein, now Circuit Clerk, as Collector of Internal Revenue. If he is not confirmed for the Federal position,

he may content for re-nomination in
his present place.

Other offices to be filled at the fall
election, and for which candidates
are to be named in August, are those of Probate Judge, Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, clerk of the circuit court, Prosecuting Attorney of the same court, and Alderman for the Twenty-fourth Ward, to fill an unexpired term.

Newton Files for Republican Nomina-

ton of the Tenth District yesterday
filed his candidacy for the Republican nomination to succeed himself.
His district includes part of the western part of the city and all of
St. Louis County.

Congressman Hawes, Democrat,
Eleventh District, filed as a candidate for re-nomination several weeks ago.

But the committeemen have their
choices among the prospective candi-

vis, Wilson A. Taylor, Harry A. Hamilton and John W. Calhoun will be
organization.

Some support for four judges.
Four other judges, C. W. Rut-
ledge, Franklin Ferriss, H. H. Falkenheimer and B. J. Kline, who will be candidates in the primary, will
have some support from the committee, but it does not now appear
that any of them will have a majority of the committee with him.
The ninth of the retiring judges,
Judge V. W. Garesche, is considered
as being slated for a Federal district
judgeship.

For Collectors of the Revenue, Collector Edmund Koehn probably
will be supported by at least one-
half the committeemen. If Mayor
Kiel were to undertake an active
fight on Koehn, this situation might
be changed, but the Mayor is said to
have no such intention.

License Collector Oliver G. Chapman probably will be supported by
the organization for re-nomination.
He got the nomination four years
ago over the opposition of the committee.

Tammie for Recorder of Deeds.
William Tammie, Alderman of the Sixth Ward, is considered the committee favorite for the nomination
for Recorder of Deeds.

Al Thompson, now Chief Deputy
under Assessor Buder, will be a candidate against Buder and Louis
Wollbrink, former Assessor, for this
nomination. Because of the commissions allowed in connection with
the State income tax, this office is
the most lucrative in the city. Bud-
er, Mayor Kiel appointed Buder because of his friendship for Buder's brother,
G. A. Buder, owner of the St. Louis
Times. Whether the Mayor will work in Assessor Buder's behalf with
the committee, has not appeared
thus far. At present, a number of
the committeemen appear to prefer Thompson to either Buder or Wol-
lbrink.

Herman Bader, clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes, and committeeman of the Twenty-first Ward, will have the support of at least 20 committeemen for re-nomination.

Circuit Clerkship in Doubt.
As to the other nominations, including that for the office of Circuit Clerk, the committeemen are undetermined. In the case of the circuit clerkship, the most important
question is whether the Senate confirms the appointment of Nat Gold-
stein, now Circuit Clerk, as Collector of Internal Revenue. If he is not

confirmed for the Federal position,
he may content for re-nomination in
his present place.

Other offices to be filled at the fall
election, and for which candidates
are to be named in August, are those
of Probate Judge, Judge of the Court
of Criminal Correction, clerk of the circuit court, Prosecuting Attorney of
the same court, and Alderman for
the Twenty-fourth Ward, to fill an unexpired term.

Newton Files for Republican Nomination to Succeed Himself.
Congressman Cleveland A. New-
ton of the Tenth District yesterday
filed his candidacy for the Republican nomination to succeed himself.
His district includes part of the
St. Louis County.

Congressman Hawes, Democrat,
Eleventh District, filed as a candidate for re-nomination several weeks
ago.

But the committeemen have their
choices among the prospective candidates, and the selective process has
gone far enough to indicate
where the support of the committee
will go, in the case of some of the

DINNER FOR JEWISH EDITOR

Abraham Cahan, editor of the Yiddish daily, "Forward," will be guest of honor at a dinner in Hotel Statler tonight, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the paper in New York. It is now issued in several cities, the St. Louis office being in the Fraternal Building, Eleventh street and Franklin avenue.

Cahan spoke in Yiddish last night at Sheldon Memorial, his talk being a condemnation of the militaristic spirit. He is not a believer in Zionism, holding that the proposed Jewish state in Palestine would not care for enough of the Jews of Europe to change conditions materially.

MUCH INTEREST IN REED'S SPEECH AT CAPE GIRARDEAU

Report That Senator Will Answer Several Letters Written by Wilson Main Topic of Discussion.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., May 9.—Interest in the speech of United States Senator Reed here tonight has been increased by the word which has come from St. Louis that Reed expects to make this the occasion for a reply to the several letters written to Missouri Democrats by former President Wilson opposing Reed's renomination. Reed Democrats, who for the most part are as bitter toward Wilson as is Reed himself, while hoping that Reed will not hesitate to attack his former President, are yet fearful of the effect of such a course.

The Wilson Democrats express the opinion that the more Reed has to say about Wilson the greater will be the opposition to Reed among the Democrats. His decision as to the course he will follow toward Wilson is awaited with interest and concern by his friends and his enemies as it is realized that upon it may depend the outcome of the senatorial contest between Reed and Breckinridge Long as there are many Democrats who express the opinion that a straight out attack on Wilson by Reed could have no other effect than to drive Democrats who are wavering in their opposition to Reed firmly back into the anti-Reed camp.

Another View of Situation.
On the other hand some of Reed's friends take the position that he cannot remain silent under the steady opposition of Wilson and that he must defend himself.

About 200 persons, many of them passengers waiting for trains, were at the railroad station when Senator Reed and Mrs. Reed arrived at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. Twenty automobiles were in the parade escorting the Senator to a hotel for lunch.

In Cape Girardeau Reed is in one of those counties in which there is a large German vote, much of which he would be very apt to get in a general election and some of which he may get in the primary notwithstanding that it is for the most part a Republican vote. Reed's friends here expect some Republican nomination for Reed in the Democratic primary, but they will not attempt to estimate the number and in all probability it will be small.

Cape Girardeau County is strongly Republican and it is seldom the Democrats go to the trouble of putting out a local ticket. At least there is not often a time when there is a contest for the Democratic nomination for local officers, such a nomination meaning nothing. On the other hand, there are usually contests for all Republican nominations, the nomination being equivalent to election in the Democratic primary generally held virtually all Republican votes in that primary and, while so far it does not appear whether there will be bitter contests for local nominations, Republicans say they are virtually certain to develop and that there is little danger of many Republicans joining in the Democratic primary to help Reed.

Sentiment for Long.
The situation between Reed and Long in this county is about the same as in other Southeast Missouri counties in which a recent survey by the Post-Dispatch showed the prevailing sentiment was strongly for Long.

In the Reed-Long contest there is so far no indication that the wet and dry issue is having any part in the division of the Democrats, though it is probable it is having its effect, if in no other way, through the natural lineup of factions, the wet in other campaigns being together now and the dry of other campaigns in the same group now.

Joseph W. Folk in his several campaigns in Missouri always carried this County by a good majority and it has been found here as in other places that the Folk vote is quite generally lining up with Long and against Reed. Charles C. Oliver, editor of the Cape Girardeau Sun, one of the most active of the Long leaders here, said today that it was his opinion that the county would go for Long about three to one. Other Long supporters placed the ratio all the way from two to one to five to one.

Lawyer Leader of Reed Forces.
Harry E. Alexander, a lawyer, who has taken the lead for Reed here, said he was confident that Reed would carry the county, though he said there was much anti-Reed feeling. He expressed the opinion that much of this would be dispelled by Reed's speech. Alexander is considerable of a power in Democratic politics not only in Cape Girardeau County, but through conditions existing at this time in many of the other counties of Southeast Missouri. Through appointment by Federal Judge Paris of St. Louis Alexander is referee in bankruptcy with a jurisdiction extending over nearly all the southeastern counties.

This section of the state, especially the cotton counties to the south of Cape Girardeau, were particularly hard hit by the business depression and there have been a large number of bankruptcy cases. In each of these Alexander has had the appointment of an appraiser and has had the selection of banks in which bankruptcy money should be deposited. This has made possible the exertion of an influence to be reckoned with if Alexander has cared to exercise it and he is known to be a politician who does not overlook opportunities for advantage in a political fight.

Oliver is a brother of Arthur L. Oliver of St. Louis, former United States District Attorney, who is one of the leaders in the Reed camp and who is credited with having much to do with the strong Reed support in Pemiscott County where he formerly resided.

"Trusty" Escapes From Prison Farm.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, May 9.—When milking time came at the State Penitentiary farm at Algoa, a few miles east of Jefferson City this morning, one of the milk hands was missing—Fred Boyd, serving 19 years from 1919 for robbery, from Springfield, Mo., who had departed during the night. Although Boyd had served sentences in the penitentiaries of Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa, and at least one previous sentence here, he was regarded as one of the most reliable "trusties" of the prison. He is about 50 years old.

MISS CULBERSON'S FEAR FOR SUITOR REVEALED

Letter of Senator's Daughter Warned Young War Veteran to Be Careful in Conduct.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 9.—"The scheming of my family is getting on my nerves. I know that you are under surveillance in New Jersey and that you were under surveillance in Texas. Letters have been sent to my mother stating that you are an adventurer and fortune seeker. You must be very careful and remember your promise not to do anything that might cause trouble to everybody."

So wrote Miss Mary Culbertson, only daughter of Senator Charles A. Culbertson of Texas, to Alec Robertson, young British war veteran.

Robertson charges that, following the discovery by Miss Culbertson's family of their romance, he was induced by threats made by three Burns detectives to accompany them to Boston and permit them to arrange for his passage upon a boat for South America.

Embassy May Act.
A copy of this letter, which reached Robertson at Bloomfield, N. J., April 5, shortly before the detectives called upon him, came into the possession of the New York World yesterday through persons interested in the case, but not through the young Britisher, who is averse to making public any communications he has received from Miss Culbertson. With other correspondence, it will be laid by him today before officials of the British embassy at Washington as corroborative evidence of the young man's charge, upon which, it is said, his Government may make an investigation.

For the first time since the story was published it was admitted yesterday that the Burns detective agency was acting in the case and that it was actually retained to get Robertson to leave the country.

This admission was made by G. W. Anderson, head of the Burns agency, who denied threats had been used in inducing Robertson to go to Buenos Aires and asserted the Britisher had consented to do so of his own free will.

According to Anderson, John F. Ellis, who is under arrest charged with kidnapping Robertson, and one other operative, were put on Robertson's trail. He says, however, that instead of posing as Federal officers, they offered to give him a "chance to make good" by paying his fare to Boston and then buying a first-class ticket for any port he might choose outside of North America.

Aunt Visited Burns.
William J. Burns yesterday said he recalled receiving a visit from Robertson's aunt, who told him two Burns detectives in the case had been posing as Federal officers. He said he informed her that if this were true he would have the men arrested. He said he no longer had any connection with the Burns agency. It is understood that the arrangements with the detectives were made by Chesley W. Jurney, private secretary to Senator Culbertson. It was said Senator Culbertson knew nothing of the steps taken against Robertson until the publication of the story.

Robertson in Capital to Lay Before Embassy Charges.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Alexander E. Robertson, British war veteran, arrived here today from Newark, N. J., to lay before the British embassy charges of kidnapping against three private detectives who, he alleged, attempted to force his departure from this country because of his affection for Miss Mary Culbertson, 21-year-old daughter of Senator Culbertson of Texas.

Officials indicated that any action the embassy might take would depend on the evidence then submitted.

Senator Culbertson maintained a strict silence regarding the entire affair yesterday, and later in the day was said to have indicated that he might make a formal statement about it today. Miss Culbertson, as to whose whereabouts there has been some mystery, was understood to be at the home of her parents here.

ENTIRE TOWN IN LOUISIANA FLOODED BY LEVEE BREAK

Water Reported to Be From Two to Four Feet Deep in Streets of Jonesboro—Many Homeless.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—FLOODING of the entire town of Jonesboro, La., with a population of about 1500, by a break in the levee in Catahoula Parish, today had swelled the total of Louisiana and Mississippi residents rendered homeless, and added to the tremendous property damage in the inundated sections. The water today was reported to be from two to four feet deep in the Jonesboro streets. Supplying of food rations to the approximately 30,000 refugees scattered throughout the flooded areas, in addition to the 40,000 being cared for at relief camps, still presents a serious problem.

Protection of the inhabitants of the Mississippi Valley from flood ravages was declared by Gov. John M. Parker in his message to the Louisiana Legislature yesterday to present a "great national problem," which should be handled, he said, by the ablest engineers that could be obtained.

TRAFFIC RESUMPTION HEAVY

heavily loaded with passengers and freight yesterday morning and arrived in Seligman, Mo., its destination, late last night.

Large shipments of strawberries, from a dozen or more Arkansas towns, billed for Eastern markets, were on the train. The train will be operated daily, according to J. C. Murray, vice president and general manager, to care for the strawberry crop.

Autopianos Made for the Orient Thrown Upon the American Market

Open Until 9:30 P. M.

Here are exact duplicates of Autopianos owned by many foreign notables—the Shah of Persia, the King of Spain, Pope Benedict XV, Cardinal Mercier, the Queen of the Belgians and others. It is curious to note how these aristocratic instruments vary from ordinary styles in appearance and construction. Come to this store now. We will present you to the "instrument of kings and notables."

Description

All Cases beautifully polished or Art finish. Brass hardware throughout. Player-action plays the full keyboard of 88 notes. Very easily pedalled. Ivory keys—waterproofed hammers—as required in most export Pianos. Export type reinforced tuning pin block—bolted through entire plate and back—a super-construction, built to stand where regular domestic construction would fail. Height, 4 feet 5 inches; depth, 2 feet 3 inches; width 5 feet 2 inches. Cubic space required in hold of ship, 89 cubic feet. Weight, as boxed for export in airtight cases, hermetically sealed, approximately 915 pounds.

AUTOPIANO CO.
New York City.

Dear Sirs:

The Autopiano is a marvel of art and science. The fine effects obtained in great masterpieces, as well as lighter music, give great satisfaction to the player.

Very truly yours,
(Signed)
GIACOMO PUCCINI.

The cutting off of the Autopiano's great foreign trade gives you this opportunity

This is such an extraordinary sales event—the models shown are such extraordinary player-pianos—the advantages in price and terms so truly extraordinary that no music lover should miss it. It will never occur again.

If there had been no world war—no depreciation in foreign markets—no depreciation in currency and excessive rates of exchange—you never would have had the chance to buy these beautiful export Autopianos at any price!

It happens only because all export piano business is killed for the time being, and the Autopiano Company must make immediate disposal of these ultra-made instruments which were originally intended to grace the stately halls of foreign manor houses.

We had but 235 of these regal Autopianos allotted to us for this sale, and they are going fast. Let us suggest that you come at the earliest minute.

Never in the music history of this city have there been such substantial values

Never before have genuine export player-pianos specially made and equipped been offered to the people of this city. Never before have such exceptional advantages combined in any sales event for the pleasure and profit of patrons.

The benefits to buyers are twofold: (1) The opportunity of owning a real export model with its extra beauty and added features; (2) The opportunity to save real money and make a permanent investment of real merit—the satisfaction of knowing that you have bought wisely and well.

The Autopiano Company believes the American public will be glad to own such instruments of peculiar interest and appeal. Hence, in the beginning, their total export models were distributed among leading dealers in prominent cities—as far as possible. Our allotment was far too small. We could sell twice as many, if we could get them. Have you reserved YOURS?

NOTE—The prices quoted in this sale are GUARANTEED to be the lowest EVER OFFERED in St. Louis for De Luxe Model Autopianos.

YOUNG PIONEERS' HIKE TO OKLAHOMA HALTED

Boys, 11, 12 and 13 Years Old, Started on Adventure With Six Cents and Bicycle.

A curious procession on North Broadway between Perry and Penrose streets at 2 a. m. today attracted the attention of a Police Sergeant.

A small boy was doggedly pushing a bicycle over the cobblestones and plodding behind were two other smaller boys. They dropped the bicycle upon the policeman's approach and ran, but he caught them and thereafter heard about the Great Adventure.

It seems that many men are making lots of money in Oklahoma where the oil gushes from the ground and is sold for fortunes. At least, men in Oklahoma were making more money than fathers in St.
Louis and, besides, when boys grow to be 11, 12 and 13 years old, they must not be dependent on fathers.
They should seek their own nickels.

Bicycle Is Taken.

There was a map of Oklahoma and other states in the school geography, so there would be no trouble about finding it. The boys remained the matter of transportation. Of course, pioneers always went on ponies and carried rifles, but there were no bicycles in pioneer days and bicycles were lots of fun. One was found outside of a barber shop. It belonged to another boy, but he had no such great need for it and it was taken.

The start was made after school yesterday in the vicinity of Menard street and Russell avenue. It was agreed that they would take turns on the bicycles, two blocks at a time, until Oklahoma was reached.

After a time, it got dark, and the pioneers camped in a wagon box alongside the curb, where brief sleep was taken, after which the journey was resumed.

Six Cents In Funds.

There was talk of eats, but the leader, who was custodian of the expedition's funds, 6 cents, sternly repressed such thoughts. When the trail got bumpy among the cobblestones of North Broadway, the bicycle was abandoned for walking, but was carried along for future road highways.

Did they not know there were going north, instead of toward Okla-ma? They didn't but it was a matter of no great consequence to boys of determined spirit. They could make their way anywhere.

The boys were put to sleep at the House of Detention, and today the subject of the resumption of the expedition will be taken up with parents and the subject of transportation with the boy who early last night had reported his bicycle stolen.

Petition to Change Girls' Name.

Albert T. Walsh of 3044 Missouri avenue today filed a motion in Circuit Court today asking that an order of Judge Taylor changing the name of his daughter, Mary Jane Walsh, 8 years old, to Mary Jane Bowler, be set aside. The change was made at the request of Walsh's former wife, who, following divorce, married Richard W. Bowler of 5038

Union boulevard. Her petition stated that the little girl desired the change of name. Walsh now declares that his daughter prefers to carry his name.

BARRETT TELLS OF GROWING DANGER
CENTRALIZED POWER

Tendency to Repress Individual Pointed Out by Attorney-General in Talk to Insurance Men.

"MORE RULES BEING MADE FOR CONDUCT

"No Scheme of Government Will Take the Place of Men's Thought," He declares.

Dangers of the growing centralization of governmental power the repression of the individual dom. Its future depends on the action by Attorney-General Barrett last night before the Insurance club of St. Louis in the American Association.

"Government is becoming more and more complicated, yet is receiving less and less attention from citizens," the Attorney-General declared. "The strongest government is in the strength of the individual. Its future depends on the education of his heart and mind. He takes in his Government."

Quoted De Tocqueville.
"By committing to Government the duties which we ought to do as individuals, we weaken Government and ourselves. There is a constant tendency to prevent more and more legal rules of conduct to infringe more and more upon individual freedom."
put Individual responsibility more and more into the keeping public officials. I cannot state better than by quoting De Tocqueville in his book on "Democracy in America." He says:

"The species of oppression which democratic nations are involved in is unlike anything which ever before existed in the world.
Above this race of men stands impense and tutelary power which takes upon itself alone to see their gratifications and to watch over their fate. That power is absolute, minute, regular, president and mild. It would be the authority of a parent if that authority its object was to prepare men for manhood; but it seeks, on the contrary, to keep them in perpetual childhood—or having thus successively taken each member of the community its powerful grasp and fasten them at will, the supreme power then extends its arm over the whole community. It covers the surface of society with a network of small, complicated rules, minute and uniform, through which the most original minds and the most energetic characters cannot penetrate to rise above the will of man is not shattered but softened, bent and guided.
Men are seldom forced by it to act; they are constantly restrained from acting; such a power does destroy, but it prevents existence. It does not tyrannize, but it presses, enervates, extinguishes and stupefies a people until the nation is reduced to be not better than a flock of timid industrious animals of which Government is the shepherd."
Eternal Vigilance the Key

"I have tried to show you the only should Government be kept simple and therefore as strong possible, but that in addition there is no scheme or plan for the government which will run itself will take the place of the individual thought and interest. Eternal vigilance is the price not only of but of efficient government.
Government should be kept as simple as possible to the local community and to the people. It must be sustained and active interest people. No matter how well framed our new State Constitution may do their work, there will be said what Washington said in Lafayette. On Feb. 7, 1791, Washington wrote his commendatary on the new Federal Constitution and said:

"These powers are so distributed among the legislative, executive and judicial branches which the Government is framed, that it can never be danger of degenerating into aristocracy or any other despotic or oppressive form, so long there shall remain any virtue in the body of the people."

"I would not be understanding my dear Marquis, to speak of consequences which may be presented in the evolution of ages by neglect of morals, profane liberty and licentiousness for preservation of the natural adventitious rights of mankind, as the successful usurpation that be established at such an untimely juncture upon the ruins liberty, however, provided guarded and secured, as these circumstances against which some produce can effectively veto.

I know that no retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of the people, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Some Reputation.

SENATOR REED, in his Moberly speech, rather outdoes himself in moderation of statement when he says of Herbert Hoover:

"He had attained some reputation in transporting food into Belgium."

Would Senator Reed say that "Moses attained some reputation in conducting an emigration movement from Egypt?"

Would he consider that "Hannibal attained some reputation in a military march through a mountainous region?"

Would he hold that "Grant attained some reputation in interviews at Vicksburg and Appomattox?"

Would he hold that "Goethals attained some reputation in engineering work in Central America?"

The establishing and direction of the Commission for the Relief of Belgium was a colossal work of mercy and of business ability, a constructive and constructive work in the capacity of the obstructionist mind to estimate. It set a standard of international benevolence which may not be passed for generations to come.

It was followed, in Hoover's career, by a work of equal necessity, and of greater scope and more complex requirements—the work of the United States Food Administration. Second only to the army in the field, American food conservation, as directed by Hoover, was the means of the American and allied victory.

An essential part of this great work, a part fitting into the other parts and not properly to be judged or discussed without a view of the whole task, was the price-control established by Hoover. The measure of Senator Reed's estimate of Hoover's work in Belgium is also the measure of his view of the price-control plan, which he describes as if it were an isolated and unwarranted attempt to deprive the farmer of his due. The entire Hoover portion of the Reed speech is an exhibition of contemptible pettiness, in an attempt to justify an unjustifiable course.

Sherman Boulevard.

It is suggested that the name of King's highway boulevard, which is cumbersome, absurd and un-American, be changed to Sherman boulevard.

This would be a tardy honor to a great national and historical character, who called St. Louis his home, and who buried here with his wife and children. Some public-spirited citizen of wealth should see that a suitable statue or monument is erected to his memory. Sherman has been honored in many other American cities but not at home. There are also a number of other St. Louisans, of national and international fame, most of them buried here, whose memory has not been properly honored by us. Other cities have suitably remembered them.

A Wet Year.

We are to elect a Democratic Senator from Missouri this fall.

Reed won't do. Even if nominated he will not be elected. Too many Democrats have never forgiven him for his attacks on Wilson.

Long won't do. If nominated, he will be beaten because he is not being opposed by Anti-Saloon League. Whether he is dry or not I do not know, but he is apparently going to accept at least the passive support of the Anti-Saloon League.

This is going to be the year in which a man opposed to prohibition and the other personal liberty attacking laws will be elected.

The people are ready to vote for a man who will come out like a man and say that he is in favor of voting for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and for the modification of the Volstead law, that he would vote that way if the Congress ever becomes sane enough to reconsider these laws.

Look over the field carefully and pick out some good Democrat who has supported Wilson, the League of Nations, and who is wet, and induces him to run and he will be nominated and elected. Surely there ought to be some good men like this in St. Louis or in Missouri. This is a wet year.

Conductor a Landlord.

I READ with a good deal of interest in your edition of May 2 a letter regarding 7-cent carfare and the high wages of street carmen.

How long will we have to continue to pay this 7-cent fare in order to keep up these high wages of street carmen? Why are they entitled to it, when other men and other women have been forced to accept reduced wages, and still keep on paying high carfare and high rents?

My landlord happens to be a street car conductor—never misses a day—works Sunday like any other day—draws these high wages, and seems to be of the opinion that other people should work for him. But he can't afford to, even though he doesn't have to pay rent. And he refuses to have any repairs made on the place because labor is too high.

THE FIRE MARSHAL LAW.

Having failed to induce past Legislatures to saddle on Missouri their State Fire Marshal bill, the big insurance companies are now seeking to embody its provisions in our organic law as a section of our proposed revised Constitution.

To suggest a State Fire Marshal law naturally raises an illusion of fewer fires and appears harmless, if not meritorious. But an examination of the law the insurance companies are after reveals it to be as vicious as any legislation ever attempted by Big Business. They have succeeded in fastening it upon Illinois and some other nearby states, but thus far our country legislators have balked them.

Here is their measure, as they drafted it for Illinois, and as they seek to impose it on Missouri: The Governor shall appoint a State Fire Marshal whose duty it shall be to investigate and keep a public record of all fires. The Fire Marshal shall appoint a chief deputy and as many other deputies as he pleases. It won't cost the State a cent because the insurance companies will contribute one-fourth of one per cent of their gross premiums annually to foot the bill. This is the bait—we get something for nothing.

If, in any investigation, it is the opinion of the Fire Marshal that there is evidence of "arson or conspiracy to defraud an insurance company or criminal conduct in connection with such fire" he shall cause such person to be arrested and charged with such offense. When it is considered that the Fire Marshal is necessarily a partisan of the companies it is inconceivable that any state would empower him thus to terrorize citizens who are claimants.

Every Mayor, local Fire Chief or Town Clerk shall report to the Fire Marshal promptly every fire occurring in his community, under a penalty of fine for failure. The Fire Marshal or his subordinates shall thereupon begin an investigation, with power to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses and to administer oaths; and any false swearing shall be deemed perjury and punished as such. The Fire Marshal and his subordinates may then demand the production of any book, paper or document deemed pertinent, a power not possessed by a grand jury or a court of justice, save upon the issuance of a search warrant particularly describing the thing wanted.

Not satisfied with thus contemptuously brushing aside of the fourth amendment there is this gem of a clause, overriding the fifth amendment against compulsory self-incrimination:

Any witness who refuses to be sworn or who refuses to testify or who disobeys any lawful order of the State Fire Marshal or his subordinates, or who fails or refuses to produce any book, paper or document touching any matter under examination, or who is guilty of any contumacious conduct after being summoned, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding $25 and imprisoned until such fine is paid.

But this is not all. The Fire Marshal and his subordinates are empowered to enter upon the premises and homes of anyone at any time, day or night, make an examination and order building or other alterations, in their own discretion; and failure to observe such order subjects the disobedient citizen to a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50 for each day's neglect. Compared with the Fire Marshal and his tribe as legalized housebreakers the Volstead agent's searches would become mere peccadilloes.

There may be merit in a fire marshaling to guard against arson, but there is menace in the power conferred upon the office by the Illinois law.

It is to be hoped that the delegates to the constitutional convention will hold steadfast to the fundamental reforms which experience proves necessary, turning a deaf ear to all special and class interests, especially those which overturn the established principles of justice and liberty.

BUDGET FIGURES AND RELATIVITY.

The story of the budget, as told by President Harding in transmitting Director Dawes' report to Congress, claims a conditional reduction of $907,500,000 in expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, as compared with 1921. There are numerous happy abstractions in the recital, too, which, it is hoped, will evaluate in concrete results, but exception may be taken to one of the cheeriest episodes.

"It affords an interesting comparison," says the report, "to note that the expenditures for the current fiscal year were estimated last December by the director of the budget at $3,967,922,366 and that the actual expenditures will be $45,550,336 less than that estimate." Now, the sum of $45,550,336, when standing "isolated and alone," is a rather majestic pile.

PUTTING THE FINISHING TOUCH ON THE "MONUMENTAL ACHIEVEMENTS"

(From the Louisville Courier-Journal.)

There is nothing to do with the fact that all these men have enjoyed or are to enjoy rewards from the Harding administration? If you say no you convict Mr. Harding of ingratitude, a quality for which Senator Reed is about to be beaten.

"It looks to me as if we ought to make up our minds about ingratitude. Is it a bad thing or a good thing? If we don't decide pretty soon we are going to have things terribly mixed up."

Let us hope that in the final disposition of the Goitra fleet there will be boats assigned to the upper river. The people in the upper valley have been waiting a long time for the river to come back. They have allied themselves with everybody seeking to make it come back. They have been reading for some years of the barge line upon the lower river, and if an extension of that service does not reach to the Twin Cities pretty soon the whole upper river community will despair. The support of those people and their fine faith are too fine an asset to be sacrificed to almost any other consideration as to boats and barges. The population on the upper river is some ten times as great as that on the lower river, and when the barge service extends to that populous region the gratification will be by comparison that many times greater. We always thought Mr. Weeks should come out and make a trip down the Mississippi. We were afraid he might have in mind something like the rivers they have in Massachusetts.

but viewed in relativity it is not so imposing. In an aggregate of three billions the saving of forty-five millions amounts to about one and one-half per cent. That is scarcely enough to cause a stampede.

SAFETY IN ST. LOUIS.

The Safety Council, which meets at dinner tonight to take account of the increase of automobile accidents and to devise ways and means to check them, might well consider the necessity of adequate thoroughfares radiating in all directions from the city's center to accommodate increasing automobile traffic.

The small number and narrowness of the streets connecting the main business center of the city with residence and outlying business districts, combined with the increasing traffic, multiply the difficulties and dangers of street travel. Traffic is growing rapidly and must continue to grow if the city is to go forward instead of backward.

Traffic regulations are helpful necessities, but traffic and street conditions are reaching a point where regulation cannot cope with the situation. The congestion of traffic and the cross currents on a few streets are a menace to both pedestrians and vehicles. In a short time the limit will be reached. There is no margin to spare now.

The putting through of the major street plan would supply more thoroughfares, thoroughfares to the north and south, the northwest and southwest, which would divert traffic from the few existing east and west and north and south streets. Main thoroughfares would be widened and dangerous corners cut.

The major street plan is a necessity. St. Louis must have relief or suffer a heavy handicap in growth, business expansion and safe traffic.

The major street plan can be undertaken only through a bond issue. The city has reached a point where a bond issue for necessary improvements is imperative. It will mean a larger, better and safer city.

THE DAVISON POWER.

Henry P. Davison was a dynamo of strength who served mightily wherever he was called. The dynamo came under the observation of the reigning power of Wall street; it was tested, proved good and was annexed.

Who can guess what would have been heard of Davison outside of financial circles had not another claim of a different character been made upon his power? War came, and its needs of human salvage as well as of human destruction. It found Henry P. Davison, and under the spell of his genius a miracle was enacted. A weak, inferior organization grew to a mighty institution, saving life, relieving suffering, winning universal support as "the greatest mother in the world" and opening the purse of the nation for its support.

The name of Henry P. Davison will be remembered in America as long as the great war. Whatever his impulse his service was mighty. But that his impulse was truly benevolent was evidenced by his interest in reconstruction after the war. It was a generous fate which bestowed upon him his strength, and a ruthless fate which struck him down at the prime of his powers.

WHERE A POET SKIDS.

The world is too much with us—our powers, it was Wordsworth. If we remember right, who thus lamented. He was wrong. The Democrats have proved him wrong. They offer in refutation the Michigan and Missouri dossier.

The Michigan distributors of the Newberry money, who were indicted along with the Commodore, are, faring as well, it seems, as the Missouri depositaries of the Lowden fund. One of them has been given a postoffice, another has been made United States Attorney for the eastern district of the state, and still another has been awarded the same office in the western district. The trio nicely counterpoints the Missouri triumvirate—Davis, Allen and Cole—for whom berths have respectively been found in diplomacy, prohibition and the Department of Justice at Washington.

And there you are. Whatever else they are, the Michigan spenders and Missouri getters are not wasters. Disbursers and receivers are held in similar esteem. Prodigal and acquisitive are alike provided for. It is equally blessed to corrupt and to be corrupted, and equally profitable.

Wordsworth's poetic dictum skids badly when it strikes the tortuous pike of Missouri and Michigan politics.

THE DICTATOR.

JUST A MINUTE

SONG OF REPUBLICAN PROSPERITY.

I'm humbled and disgusted, and I don't know what to do. My pocketbook is empty, haven't got a single sou. I'm actually tired of living, but it costs too much to die. For the price of a modern "overcoat" is a awful scandalous high. For one long year I haven't worked a solitary day. If I ever get another job, my debts, perhaps, I'll pay. I've always been a working man, for some my love is immense, but I took my seat with Harding and I've kept it ever since.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"SOMEHOW, I don't believe Mr. Harding is going to back down on the Goldstein appointment," Mr. Antwerp said. "Except for Goldstein and the Missouri scandal at the Chicago convention, Mr. Harding would not be in the White House. He knows that very well, and it is going to take something of a storm to turn him from the support of the men who made him President, however unwitting their service was."

"At the time the Chicago convention met the race for the nomination lay between Gov. Lowden and Gen. Wood. The candidates of those two gentlemen were so well organized and had become in some respects so picturesque that the whole country was in a state of excitement as to how it would come out."

"It was at this moment that the Missouri scandal broke. There had been complaints about money in the campaign, chiefly the charges of Senator Borah that money had been spent to beat Hiram Johnson in one of the Dakotas. This led to an investigation by the Senate, and it was in this investigation that the Missouri scandal developed."

"The Missouri scandal beat both Lowden and Wood. It rendered unavailable anyone who enjoyed the expenditure of great sums of money in support of his candidacy. Nor was that all. The Missouri scandal made it necessary for the convention to turn to someone whose candidacy was obscure."

"It was thus that Mr. Harding came to the front. He had been a candidate for the nomination at the prior convention without causing a ripple. The same thing would have occurred in 1920 had it not been for the Missouri scandal. Goldstein, Moore, Babier, Cole, etc., made Harding the nominee, as they destroyed the chances of Lowden and Wood. They made President of the United States a man who but for them would not have had the chance of a snowball in Calcutta."

"Has this anything to do with the fact that all these men have enjoyed or are to enjoy rewards from the Harding administration? If you say no you convict Mr. Harding of ingratitude, a quality for which Senator Reed is about to be beaten."

THE CASE OF E. MONT REILLY.

From the Ohio State Journal.

IF Gov. E. Mont Reilly of Porto Rico would show his appreciation for the friendship prompted his selection for that position, he not delay handing his resignation to the President. By so doing he will relieve the President from an annoying embarrassment that has been increasing of late and will soon be intolerable. It must be apparent to the friends of Gov. Reilly that his days of usefulness in that position are at an end. He is out of harmony with the conditions on the island, so greatly that his friction only can be expected if he is permitted to remain there. Porto Rico deserves to have an American governor whose efforts will be to improve conditions and enlarge opportunities, and whose interests advanced. The United States is sufficiently diplomatic to be able to reflect a friendly spirit this nation entertains for the island.

A WORD FOR MISSOURI.

From Floyd C. Shoemaker's History of the Missouri.

MISSOURI history is rich in interest, tradition, and profit. Missouri's cottonwood 1921 revealed to adult and child the resources of our State. But Missouri history is more than romance. It is a study offering high reward to followers. It is one of the bases for soundness the value of sound patriotism. It is the great developer of man's chief asset—the critical faculty. It furnishes a fund of information from knowledge grows and wisdom develops. This is a history of Missouri and Missouri. Therefore, it is topical, first and foremost. The main emphasis throughout is the people's social and economic development. The political phase is not slighted but it is only its proper proportion. The same is true of Missouri's geographical position, her resources, and the character of her population. Fully dealt with in order to lay the foundation for appreciating the activities of the people, the early exploration in Missouri, the early American settlers, and the pioneer days are also fully treated for an understanding of her later century statehood.

Missouri's history, resources, and conditions are as well known at home as are those of the chieftains, this State will have little need of such a study population in either county or city.

WORK IN SINGINGTIME.

PAINTER and a poet
Go forth to greet the Spring.
Are flowers and everything.

The painter sets his canvas.
The poet takes her book.
She sighs, he whistles, and pass Between them many a look.

Night falls. No picture painted.
No song. Repentant sighs.
Two lovers reconciled.
With one another's eyes.

COMEDIAN APPEARS TWO ORPHEUM TU

Robert Emmett Keane As Playlet and Then Comes Ward in Monologue.

ROBERT EMMETT KEANE, a suave comedian, takes a vacation on the Orpheum's touring bill of this week. He is first, with Claire Whitney and Hersome, in a playlet by Law Grattan, "The Gossipy Sex." He comes forward alone in a series in the cockney dialect, line position is shared by Santrey and his "Society" 10 instrumental farces and quillions.

"The Gossipy Sex" interprove that man is the tattle-the human species. A couple long wedded, happen, in a lobby, to meet a former friend is unaware of their marriage each in turn he relates details of the other's past. Learning that they are man and wife, he into the deepest contrition and wishes himself a cad. A later the telephone rings, and male gossip, answering, somewhat as follows: "If you haven't invited the party"—"Well, now that mentioned the subject, I can't something really interesting ha-a-hi—Listen, she is a fiend!"

Miss Whitney, who has had roles in the movies, was form the stage, and is able to acquit self as well as the usual foil in a vaudeville skit.

Santrey and his band, a weird array of instruments, various levities upon doses snatches appropriated from known compositions, and pre-clever burlesque upon the motif system.

The bill opens with a striking trial act by the Ruth Howell and Rob Ward chatter and in a nonsense act called "Anie." The Innis brothers, a tairtaining comedy dancers, less fortunate in their dialog than St. Leon does exciting each feet in a one-riding circle for which "volunteers" from audience—evidently far more than they pretend—provide a able finale.

APPLAUD HACKETT IN 'OT

"Greatest Scenes Are for Him to be Played With Every Incident as His Command."

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch, London, May 9.—Both British critics and Shakespearean enthusiasts are over the moon at Hackett's performance at a charity performance to raise funds for mous old London Theater, the "Vic," which has long been the of Shakespeare here and training school for some of the best present-day actors and a in the country.

The Sunday Times critic de Hackett's performance as "full" adding: "Is the early seemed to be holding him back, however, the storm, last, there was no resting, the London Times said, great scenes are for him must played with every instrument, and his every movement, splendid, his every movement, and full."

On account of the number of acts, Hackett gave only two scenes from the third act of "Othello" and the first of the entire play. Hackett's "beth" made a profound impression on London audiences more year ago.

COMEDIAN APPEARS IN TWO ORPHEUM TURNS

Robert Emmett Keane Acts in Playlet and Then Comes Forward in Monologue.

ROBERT EMMETT KEANE, a vaudeville comedian, takes part in two acts on the Orpheum stage this week. He appears first, with Claire Whitney and F. B. Hersome, in a playlet by Lawrence Grant, "The Gospel Sex." Then comes forward alone to tell stories in the cockney dialect. Headline position is shared by Henry Santry and his "Society Band" of 10 instrumental farceurs and imitators.

"The Gospel Sex" intends to prove that man is the tattle-tale of the human species. A couple, not long wedded, happen, in a hotel lobby, to meet a former friend who is unaware of their marriage. To each in turn he relates careful tales of the other's past. Learning finally that they are man and wife, he falls into the deepest contrition and confesses himself a cad. A moment later the telephone rings, and the male gossip, answering, speaks somewhat as follows:

"Yes—you haven't invited her to the party?—Well, now that you've mentioned the subject, I can tell you something really interesting—Ha-ha—ah—Listen, she is a dope friend!"

Miss Whitney, who has had some roles in the movies, was formerly on the stage, and is able to acquit herself as well as the usual feminine foil in a vaudeville act.

Santry and his band, with a weird array of instruments, commit various levities upon dozens of snatches appropriated from well-known compositions, and present a clever burlesque upon the "dell-mott" system.

The bill opens with a striking aerial act by the Ruth Howell Duo, Al and Bob Ward chatter and twitter in a nonsense act called "Penny Ante." The Innis brothers are entertaining comedy dancers, but are less fortunate in their dialogue. Lillian St. Leon does exciting horseback feats in a one-act circus act, for which "volunteers" from the audience—evidently far more skilled than they pretend—provide a laughable finale.

BRITISH CRITICS AND SCHOLARS
APPLAUD HACKETT IN 'OTHELLO'

"Greatest Scenes Are for Him Music to Be Played With Every Instrument," Said the London Times.

LONDON, May 8.—Both dramatic critics and Shakespearean scholars are enthusiastic over J. K. Hackett's impersonation of Othello here recently. Hackett appeared at a charity performance to raise funds for the famous old London Theater, the "Old Vic," which has long been the home of Shakespeare here and the training school for some of the finest present-day actors and actresses in this country.

The Sunday Times critic described Hackett's performance as "powerful," adding: "In the early part he seemed to be holding himself in. When, however, the storm burst at last, there was no restraining it." The London Times said: "The great scenes are for him music to be played with every instrument at his command. His voice is rich and splendid, his every movement full and free."

On account of the number of other acts, Hackett gave only the third scene from the third act of "Othello" and the critics desire to see him in the entire play. Hackett's "Macbeth" made a profound impression on London audiences more than a year ago.

"THE PRIMITIVE LOVER" FARCE MELODRAMA

Charlie Ray Has a Mysterious Vehicle and Latest Elinor Glyn Film Is Sentimental.

"FARICAL treatment, especially in the early stages, saves 'The Primitive Lover.' Constance Talmadge's latest offering, which is the week's principal attraction at the New Grand Central. Even at that there are lapses from the true comedy spirit when Miss Talmadge essays depths of emotionalism for which she is hardly fitted.

The story is that of a girl who loves a popular novelist and all his works. When it is reported that the novelist is dead she marries another. Her husband is a practical and efficient young fellow who fails to meet her romantic ideals.

When the novelist turns up alive and well the young wife sees in this episode the return of her first love. She rushes to Reno and obtains her divorce. The novelist prevails on her to accompany him "into the wilds where they can be free from sordid conventionalities." They start and end their knowledge of each other by the receipt of news that through some legal hitch the divorce decree was not made finally effective. So there is no need of remarriage. They have only to leave the novelist to his own poor resources and go back home to live happy ever afterward.

On the program also is a most diverting comedy, "Torchy's Ghost," with Johnny Hines as the star.

Charlie Ray Radiates Mystery. In "Gas, Oil and Water," the feature at the West End Lyric, Charlie Ray, usually as frank as an open book, faces a mystery which surrounds himself and his dealings with deep dark mystery which is not cleared up until the climax. Also he introduces a new leading lady, Miss Charlotte Pierce, who has good looks and considerable acting ability. She has the role of the girl whose curiosity about the mysterious young man ripens at last into love.

The scenes are laid in the Western mountain country. The youth of mystery opens an oil filling station near the hotel operated by the girl's father. The girl, in this week's antic, After a big white automobile has stopped for oil and gone on she sees him climb to the roof and paint large white numbers on it. Then an airplane man of mystery exchange signals with the aviator. The mystery is well sustained. Not until near the close is revealed, after the villain tries to kidnap the girl, that Charlie is a secret service agent and has been directing airplane police in running down a gang of law-breakers.

Elinor Glyn's Absurd Film. When such a trio as Elinor Glyn, Gloria Swanson and Rudolph Valentino collaborate on a moving picture, the public may expect oceans of treacle, but hardly such a mythical farce as "Beyond the Rocks," which is at the Missouri Theater this week. The pulchritude of the stars can compensate for much but not for the shabbiness of this vehicle.

The story is absurd. A young woman, to rehabilitate her father's fortune, marries a portly grocer. Subsequently she meets and loves a handsome Earl, who has once saved her from drowning. The grocer learns of the romance, and Rudolph Valentino and Gloria Swanson, at once to Africa, where he succeeds in getting himself killed by tribesmen, the remorseful wife arriving just in time to witness his demise.

This narrative is punctuated with interjections like: "Oh, Hector! We are not as strong as our love! We must part!" and with such names as "Lord Bracondale" and "Morella." Picture audiences are notoriously uncritical, but even the Valentino and Swanson fans perceived the crudity of the piece and some of the more astute souls greeted with hilarious outbursts.

The absence of music gave garish emphasis to the bizarre character of the entertainment, to whose sordid and comic values there was a contribution in which a Florida individual engaged in a wrestling match with a young alligator.

STATE LAW TO CURB 'AMBULANCE

Committee on Professional Ethics. The Executive Committee, of which Guy A. Thompson, president of the association, is chairman, will report its plan to the June meeting. The Grievance Committee report, presented by William S. Bedal, stated that the most flagrant case recently of advertising for business was that of a former Circuit Judge, who is not a member of the bar association.

Indorsements Discussed. There was a lengthy discussion of plans for the indorsement of a slate of candidates for the nominations to fill nine vacancies on the St. Louis Circuit Court, at the August primaries. Peter Barrett urged the appointment of a committee of four lawyers, two of whom he solicited to be members of the bar association. Some speakers opposed the plan to call in nonmember lawyers to take part in the indorsement, while others upheld the idea. Of more than 2000 persons in St. Louis who are admitted to the bar, only about 1500 are practicing lawyers. It was stated, and about 700 of these belong to the Bar Association. The whole matter of indorsement of judicial candidates was finally referred to the Executive Committee. A motion was carried for members of the association to refrain from signing the numerous petitions being circulated for such candidates.

Woman Denied Membership. The application of Mrs. Mary Gabriel Jones, who for eight years has been a probation officer in the Municipal Courts, to join the Bar Association, was rejected by a vote of 96 for her election to 44 against it. A 20 per cent negative vote is sufficient to reject an applicant. Speakers declared that her rejection was based wholly on the principle of excluding all women, though there is no such rule.

MEDICAL SOCIETY TO ERECT $100,000 HOME

Organization Expected Tonight to Authorize Committee to Proceed With Plans.

The St. Louis Medical Society is expected tonight to authorize its Building Committee to proceed upon plans for a new building to cost $100,000 or more, which will replace present quarters at 3525 Pine street.

The instructions to the committee likely will indicate that the new building may be erected on the present site or that a new location in the district adjacent to Grand avenue and Olive streets may be acquired. The present building is a former residence to which several years ago an auditorium was attached. The building is combustible and, hence, is regarded as an undesirable depository for the society's valuable medical library of 21,000 volumes. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 250, whereas the society membership is approximately 1000. Plans for the new building likely will include an auditorium with a seating capacity approaching the membership total, and with a second auditorium having a smaller capacity. In addition, the building will provide adequate library and reading room space, and quarters for the office of the society.

Dr. W. W. Graves, president, said today that the society, as an instrument for the protection of the public against illegitimate practitioners, soon would recommend itself to citizens as worthy of endowment by gift. The St. Louis Society is now in its eighty-sixth year.

The MAP of the Union Pacific looks like a Tour of the National Parks

Map of Through Train Routes between the East and the West—Union Pacific System and connections

THE choice places of this continent, places of grandeur, beauty and wonder, Uncle Sam has set aside for all time as playgrounds of the people.

Nine of these great National Parks of the west are directly on or reached via the Union Pacific System and connections.

Each is unique. All present scenic grandeur or natural phenomena or both to intrigue the world-wide traveler. They are nature's incomparable gift to America. All Americans should see them.

- 1 Rocky Mountain National (Estes) Park—in the Colorado Rockies. The supreme mountain scenery. 50 peaks over two miles high.
- 2 Yellowstone National Park—encompassing more natural wonders than any other place in the world.

- 3 Mount Rainier National Park—the greatest accessible glacier fields in the world—Snow and flowers side by side. Winter sports all summer.
- 4 Crater Lake National Park—a lake 2000 feet deep in an extinct volcanic crater—"a sea of sapphire" among the mountains.

- 5 Lassen Volcanic National Park—home of the only volcano in captivity in the United States.
- 6-7 Sequoia and General Grant National Parks—Giant Sequoia trees 300 feet high—3000 years old.

- 8 Yosemite National Park—mountains silver-white; marvelous waterfalls; granite spires; mighty trees; a world of beauty.
- 9 Zion National Park—a masterpiece in magnitudes; incredible colorings; wonderful canyons. BRYCE CANYON, a gigantic amphitheatre of towers, spires, minarets and fortresses in gorgeous colors. CEDAR BREAKS, another of Nature's scenic rarities in southern Utah—a stupendous, colorful, forest-rimmed chasm.

You can comfortably see all or as many of these great National Parks as you choose on one long-to-be-remembered trip via the Union Pacific

Oregon Loses Oil Case Decision.
By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, May 9.—The Supreme Court, with only one dissenting vote, yesterday granted an injunction to the International Petroleum Co. against acts of President Obregon and the Department of Commerce and Industry. The case was similar to that of the Texas Co., decided several months ago, which it was said at the time defined as non-retroactive. Article 27 of the Constitution provides for nationalization of petroleum deposits.

Get the Genuine if You Want Positive Results

When you pay your good money for something to kill insects, you want to KNOW that it has real power, don't you? All right, ask for and GET genuine Hofstra; there's nothing else that does the work so well. Hofstra is Not a Poison. It is perfectly harmless to Humans. Yet it is as deadly as poison gas to most of your insect enemies.

Hofstra is "High Powered" Really Better and Much Cheaper

Made of the very best and highest quality, raw insect powder, combined with the secret Hofstra chemical formula. Nothing ever devised is so utterly destructive to insect life. Sprayed in the air they simply can't escape it. It closes the skin-pores through which they breathe. It wipes them out by the hundred.

Pay 15c for a serviceable loaded metal Hofstra gun. When empty, take apart like a valve box and RE-fill with Bulk Hofstra sold in economical packages. This is much cheaper than buying flimsy, 10c paper gun kinds that can't be refilled, and better too. See prices at right.

Making Ironing Easier than you ever thought it could be

NEARLY every woman knows the wrist strain and finger cramp that comes after even an hour's ironing.

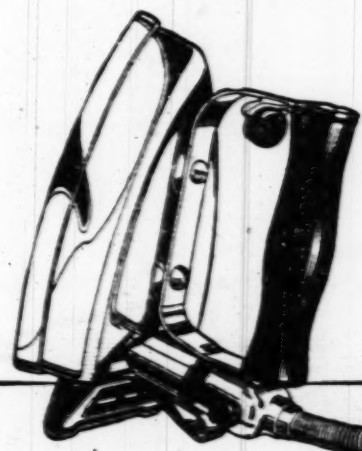

Just why no one ever before thought to cure this condition is hard to say.

But the Hotpoint Housekeeping Engineers did it.

They developed the Hotpoint Electric Iron with the strength-saving Cantilever Handle.

Do you wonder that the Hotpoint Iron is the most popular iron all over America today? A true housekeeping servant.

You would look far before you would find a better illustration of that sympathetic understanding which makes the Hotpoint Servants so welcome in lightening the day's housework.

The Attached Stand
One simply tilts the iron back on its heel instead of lifting it to and from the old-fashioned ironing stand—a saving of many hundreds of pounds of lifting in a day's ironing.

HOHENSCHILD TO BE TRIED
AT LINN, OSAGE COUNTY

Head of Night and Day Bank Charged With Receipt of Deposits After Bank Had Failed. The case of H. H. Hohenschild, president of the closed Night and Day Bank, in which he is charged in three indictments with having assented to the receipt of deposits after the bank had failed, and in which he was granted a change of venue April 25, will go to Linn, Mo., the county seat of Osage County, which is in the same judicial circuit as Franklin County, to which the case of Cashier A. O. Meininger has been sent on a change of venue.

In announcing his decision Circuit Judge Kilgore today said that he had purposely sent both cases to the same circuit in order that Judge Ransom A. Brewer, presiding over the circuit, may familiarize himself with the details of the two cases at the same time. Hohenschild objected to his case being sent to Osage County on the ground that he would not be able to get a fair trial there, for the reason that publication of the progress of Meininger's trial in St. Louis papers having wide circulation throughout the judicial circuit might have a prejudicial effect on his case. He was overruled.

People Get Taste of Blue Sunday.

By the Associated Press. ENID, Ok., May 9.—Enid was a "blue" city Sunday. All motion picture shows, drug stores, soda fountains, cigar stands and shoe-shining parlors were closed during the day as a protest to the closing of Sunday moving picture houses, toward which end a campaign is being waged here. A special election has been ordered for May 12.

J. H. McLaurin of Jacksonville, Fla., in Address Here, Declares the Crisis Is Past.

J. H. McLaurin of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, addressing the annual convention of the association at Hotel Statler today, said:

"Business is better, thank you. The crisis is past."

"This great American Government is coming to recognize as never before the vital relationship between Government and business. There is progress in the fulfillment of President Harding's prophecy of 'less Government in business and more business in Government.'"

"This organization is charged with the obligation of defending the consuming public against the threatened grip of a monopolistic control of America's food by the meat packers, referred to generally as the Big Five—although, in fact, I believe that it can be only truthfully said that there are four—as Cudahy does not appear to be a factor in the distribution of foods."

The convention, which is being attended by about 500 men and women, will hold two sessions daily until Friday noon. Entertainment features for the women are a musical at Vandeventer's auditorium at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow and a shopping tour of department stores, with a visit to the roof of the Railway Exchange Building Thursday afternoon.

12 ARRESTS AT FINDING OR PURCHASE OF LIQUOR IN SALOONS

Police and Federal Dry Enforcement Agents Visit Six Places With Search Warrants

Twelve saloon keepers or bartenders were arrested yesterday by police and federal prohibition enforcement agents, with search warrants, after so-called liquor had been bought or discovered in six saloons visited.

They were P. Trudius, proprietor of a saloon at 2101 Washington avenue; John Barberieri, proprietor, and Orestes Mariani, bartender, Savoy Bar, Jefferson avenue and Olive street; James Nick, proprietor, and James Base and J. N. O'Neill bartenders, at 2903 Olive street; Nicholas Schroeder, proprietor, and Charles Masterson, bartender, 2315 North Ninth street; John Williams, proprietor, and Fred Thompson, bartender, 2701 North Ninth street; and Albert W. Hamilton and Bernard Derby, 612 North Vandeventer avenue. Enforcement agents say Derby is the proprietor at the last address, but Hamilton contends he conducts the place.

Mrs. Anna Williams, who the agents say sold them liquor last Saturday at Williams' saloon, was ordered to appear today before Commissioner Atkins. Police also arrested Herman Schnitzer, restaurant proprietor at 1111 Franklin avenue, when they found a red liquor in his establishment.

MOTION TO DROP INDICTMENTS AGAINST CEMENT MEN DENIED

New York Federal Judge, However, Dismissed Count Alleging Contract to Restrict Trade.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Federal Judge Knox today denied a motion of counsel for the alleged cement trust for dismissal of indictments alleging violation of the Sherman act, under which 19 companies and 44
individuals are being tried.

He sustained a motion to dismiss the second count of the indictment, however, which charges the defendants with entering into a contract to restrain trade and curtail production. It was on this count that the case against the cement manufacturers' association was built by the Government.

The remaining count, which charges conspiracy to fix prices, has been sufficiently borne out by testimony to warrant its submission to the jury except in the case of the Allentown Portland Cement Co.
Judge Knox held. He said he would direct a verdict in favor of that company, as the Government has conceded it failed to make a case against it.

Taking of testimony on the conspiracy count was resumed.

dense clouds of yellow vapor, which endangers life throughout the entire community. Other explosions are feared, as there are large accumulations of all kinds of munitions at Marostica. Troops have been sent to the village in an endeavor to isolate the dangerous district.

VIEWS AND VIEWPOINTS

By WINIFRED BLACK

(Copyright, 1922.)

WHAT a picture they make whenever I see them—the two little girls next door.

One is blond and the other has gorgeous red hair—I never see one without the other. Sometimes they wear little squirrel muffs, and gray "tippets," as grandmother used to call them, and little gray hoods tied snugly under their chins. And then they look like little gray squirrels, with their bright, sparkling eyes and their funny little roguish ways.

Sometimes they are soberly dressed in dark coats and plain hats, and they look so serious and dignified that I'm almost afraid to call to them, for fear they will think me too unconventional.

But yesterday, they came up the hill step by step, and so grew gradually into the landscape, as people do when you see them from the side of a steep hill, and behold, they were dressed in gorgeous mandarin coats. One coat was of mandarin blue—all spattered with gold and red, and one was of delicate apple green—and the roses upon the green coat were cunningly fashioned of silver thread. And the two little coats made such a gay note that the sky suddenly seemed bright, though it had been cloudy just a moment before.

What pretty little things they are—the little girls next door, and so simple and sweet, too. They live in a beautiful house of gray plaster with heavy beams in it. There is a low hanging roof, and there are broad steps, but the principal thing about that house—is the view.

You get it when you walk into the living room.

For the living room opens into the garden, and out of the windows you can see the blue, blue water—and white sails going up and down—and across an arm of the water, purple mountains, with cloaks of clouds, silver gray and rose.

And it was Wonderful. No wonder the little girls love to wear their gorgeous mandarin coats. What a difference it does make—the view you have from your living room window.

Stupid streets, level and monotonous—dark courts and melancholy sidewalks—even bright thoroughfares full of hurrying people. If I were the mother of these two little girls I should never forget to be grateful that my children—when they look from the windows, see the blue water and the white sails and the purple mountains, cloaked in silver gray and rose.

I wonder if they won't carry that vision with them through life. The view—it's all in the view, everywhere.

Two reporters went out to investigate a story the other day, and one of them came back and said:

"There's nothing in it—the people live in a horrid neighborhood and they're very poor and awfully common. Why, the girl even says 'ain't got.' What can you do with people like that?"

And the other reporter came back and said:

"Such a beautiful girl, such eyes and such a delicious, soft voice. Yes, I guess she's pretty ignorant and, of course, they're very poor—but I got them to tell me the whole story and I think it's wonderful."

And it was wonderful—so wonderful that when it was printed in the newspapers the whole city was intrigued by it. And that beautiful girl will have a chance in life and learn not to say "ain't got," and maybe some day she will live in a house where she can see something beautiful when she looks out of the window—all because one of the reporters who was sent to see her had the right sort of "viewpoint" when he looked at life.

Bless Their Hearts. The little girls next door—such clear, piping voices as they have, and such funny little songs—all about "Banbury Cross" and a most interesting young man called "Jack Homer."

There they are now—one in red and one in apple green. We ought to get up a mass meeting and send the mother of those two little girls a vote of thanks.

Her taste and her light heart and her two little girls—one red-haired and one blond—are like gay music on a dull day.

Hope they'll always love color and light and gaiety—and above all, may they always keep a viewpoint that is big enough to see into the landscape a little further than just to the outer edge of it.

Meat Substitutes

WHEN the price of meats went skyrocketing higher and higher along with the increase in cost of other foodstuffs, the average housewife faced the problem of substituting cheaper protein foods for meat in the family menu occasionally in order to keep down as much as possible the rapidly mounting living cost of her family. Now that the necessity for economy has abated somewhat the wise cook still pursues her policy of substitution because she appreciates the value of a varied menu.

The term "meat substitute" is often misunderstood and generally misused. The popular idea is that any "hearty food" will take the place of meat. Cabbage is usually classed as a hearty food because of the time required for the stomach to digest it, but it contains over 50 per cent water and there is more actual food value in a pint of milk than in a pound of cabbage.

In order to successfully rebuild and repair the body we must have a certain amount of protein or "building" food. Meat is one of the building foods and furnishes the body not only with heat and the power to do work, but also with the substance which builds the body of the growing child and repairs the constantly wearing tissues of the adult. In choosing meat substitutes, foods containing a comparatively large percentage of protein must be selected.

Protein foods are of two origins—animal and vegetable.

Animal proteins beside meat are: fish, milk, eggs and cheese. Fish may be broiled, fried, scalloped or served in pudding, on toast or as a fish soufflé. Milk readily lends itself to custards, puddings and all manner of creamed dishes and may be served as a beverage at every meal, particularly for young children. Appetizing omelets can be made from eggs, and by combining eggs and cheese a great variety of dishes may be prepared. That valuable, but little appreciated dairy by-product, cottage cheese, made from skim milk, is an inexpensive substitute for meat.

Vegetable proteins include beans, peas, lentils and nuts. Many dishes may be made from them to take the place of meats at least a part of the time. Whole-grain cereals served with milk or cooked with milk are an excellent protein food.

A group of New York society women have started a movement to provide bathing stations in New York and other cities, so that men temporarily out of work can keep clean and retain their morals while hunting jobs.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

Balance Your Mental Ration.

LONG before the chemist learned how to analyze food products, men were taught by nature to balance their rations.

From the flesh of animals and the substance of plants and the waters of the stream they took the many ingredients which in combination make up the human body.

They ate and drank because their instinct taught them to eat and drink, and moreover taught them to eat and drink what their bodies needed.

Today, when their taste is overdeveloped; they overeat and drink what is not good for them—or at least they take their food requirements in the wrong proportion. Then they get ill, and the stomach specialist, with his knowledge of chemistry, teaches them to balance their rations about as the primitive man balanced his.

Instinct, however, stops with the building of the body. There is no instinct save that of self-preservation which does much toward the development of the mind.

Education does that, and by education we do not necessarily mean college education.

Indeed, college education sometimes puts the mental ration out of balance, with the result that the mind becomes that of the pedant, which is not a mind that takes a man very far along the road to progress.

The omnivorous reader usually balances his mental ration by reading everything he can get hold of and allowing his intellect to select what it needs.

The untutored reader will do well to exercise a little careful choice in the matter—to mix history with fiction and philosophy with humor. If he becomes overfond of reading about the past he will find it useful to read in the newspapers what is going on in the present. If he is too devoted to humor, it will be worth his while to turn to serious matters now and then.

The mind learns by reading and by thought. It needs many elements to make it healthy and productive. A carefully balanced mental ration will develop it. A one-sided ration will too often leave it dull and inert.

The Story of a Misunderstood Girl

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The Torture of Unrequited Love.

MRS. FRASER came across the room to me at once. I wished she would turn her attention to someone else, but she drew up a chair and sat down.

"So the wedding is to be soon—quite soon," she said.

"Yes."

"You are a very fortunate girl, Sally."

"Yes, I said."

I supposed my monosyllabic answers puzzled her, and evidently thinking I did not wish to discuss my wedding, she asked:

"How do you like Mr. Anderson?"

Such a handsome man, I think. He is a client of my brother's, you know."

"Yes—so he told me."

"I've met him before, you know."

I said lightly as I could. "When I was down in Devonshire in the winter."

She said in surprise: "Oh, have you?" and I could see a quick shudder of thought cross her face. Perhaps she had heard of my short-lived romance, and was putting two and two together, so I went on:

"I knew his cousin too. I knew her well. Nina, her name is, and she and Mr. Anderson are engaged."

Mrs. Fraser said: "Oh, indeed," rather disappointedly, and then presently, as if she had lost interest in the conversation, she moved away, and almost at once the men came in from the dining room and Lionel saw me immediately.

"Well," he said, and tried to smile. "I've hardly caught a glimpse of you all the evening."

"I caught a glimpse of you once, though," I said teasingly. "And you looked so thoroughly nasty and disagreeable I felt glad you and I had not gone in to dinner together."

"I should not have looked disagreeable if you had," he answered.

"I said 'Pook! Dook! Face! Face!'"

Bluebeard just because Mr. Anderson happened to be here! Mrs. Fraser never knew that we had met. And even if she had, what does it matter? He tried to catch my hand, but I drew it away.

"Are you sure, Sally—sure?" he asked wistfully. "You looked so radiant at dinner, I thought."

"Bluebeard," I said again. But I could stand no more inquisition. I turned abruptly from him and joined a group of girls who were chattering together.

Winnie was one of them, and she drew me apart for a moment to whisper:

"Sally, that Mr. Anderson, is he your Mr. Anderson?" she asked.

"My dear, I don't wonder you were mad about him."

But I suffered cruelly when present. I saw her disappear into a long greenhouse adjoining the dining room with Mark stroking her hair, and a sudden stabbing thought went through my mind.

Supposing he took a fancy to her? He was fairly well off, if not wealthy. And Winnie was sufficiently spoiled to manage to get her own way by fair means or foul.

I was blind and deaf to everything that went on around me, my eyes were fixed on the door through which they must return.

"Fraser" came to me again.

"Fraser" wanted me to make up a hand at bridge—do you mind?"

"Of course not, please go."

He rose to his feet, and I went off, looking quite satisfied. It is a wonderful thing how easily some things can be convinced that everything is all right, when my heart was in torment.

I bore it till I could bear no more; then, under cover of some noisy sonata being thumped out on the piano, I stole across the curtained door that led into the long greenhouse.

There was a sickly scent of flowers there, and the place was lit with shaded lights, and I walked through the almost tropical heat to a lounge at the end, where I could see my sister and Mr. Anderson.

He rose to his feet when he saw me, and Winnie frowned.

"They want you," I said to her abruptly. "Mrs. Fraser wants you to sing."

She hesitated, then she rose, for Winnie rather fancied herself a singer.

"If they really want me," she said, and looked toward Mr. Anderson.

He moved as if to follow her, and would have done so only my flimsy frock caught at that moment to a spiky palm just behind me, and I gave a little exclamation of annoyance.

He turned politely.

"Let me help you."

Winnie had gone on; I suppose her love of applause was even greater than her desire for Mark's company, and in a moment my frock was freed.

"I think that is all right. It is not torn," he said.

I did not answer, and he raised his eyes. He had been bending over his task—and looked up at me.

The gray eyes I had loved so well were very dark in the subdued light, and as we stood there it seemed absurd that I no longer had the right to go to him and raise my face to be kissed, and because the knowledge of the gulf between us hurt so unbearably I broke out, hardly knowing what I said:

"You seem to like Winnie, even if she isn't in the least like me."

And then, as he did not speak, I added passionately:

"Perhaps that is the reason why."

CHAPTER XL.

A Brutal Denunciation.

THE ghost of a smile crossed Mark's face, and he said, with the first touch of emotion I had heard in his voice all the evening:

"I thought you told me that you were no longer a baby! That you had grown up."

My lips quivered, and the tears rushed to my eyes. "I don't know what you mean," I faltered.

"Do you want me to tell you?" he asked hoarsely.

And though he did not really move, his tall figure seemed all at once to be very close to me.

"Tell me," I whispered.

He laughed a shaky laugh that sounded the unhappiest thing on earth, as he said:

"You are pretending to be—jealous—of your sister?" And he laughed again, harshly. "Jealous! By God. After all that's happened!"

I laughed wildly. For the moment I was mad with my own unhappiness.

"Jealous! Yes, I am jealous!" I said impulsively. "I hate to see you with her—you belonged to me at first."

"You—you—You—you—"

Oh, I don't know what I'm saying! I added, with a heartbroken sob, and for a moment there was a tragic silence.

Then Mark said, in a queer, broken voice:

"I can't understand you, Sally. You're engaged to Champion, and yet—yet—you look at me as if—"

"As if I loved you," I broke in, sobbing. "I do love you! I've never loved anyone else."

What does a stupid engagement matter? I said rather madly, with a shilling to it, name than—than anyone else."

My pride was down. I had forgotten that it was he who had sent me away, and I knew that he was the man for me, and that without him I could not bear my life. And I waited for what seemed an eternity of silence, broken only by his hand breaking across my face, and he gave a little inarticulate sound and moved towards me.

"Sally—"

It was his voice that spoke my name, but it was another voice that caught it up from the curtained door of the greenhouse—caught it up on a note of unbearable pain, and 'disappeared' and swinging round with a stifled cry, I saw Lionel Champion standing there.

For a moment nobody spoke, then Lionel took a quick step towards me; his face was white, but he spoke composedly.

"This is my dance, I think."

"He absolutely ignored Mark."

I drew back putting my hands behind me.

"No—"

"If I want you I'll go out in the hall and ring the gong till you come."

I interrupted, flippantly, and I laughed in a giddy, hysterical way at that moment; I wanted to be with Mark, to hear him say that he loved me, and to forget the misery of the past weeks.

Lionel drew himself up. He looked at Mark for the first time, and then back again at me.

"This is not the time or the place for a scene," he said, and I knew that it was hard work for him to speak so quietly. "You are engaged to me, and I am engaged to you."

"I must be said now—at this moment, Lionel, I—I stopped, and looked at Mark with agonized eyes. Would he never speak?"

There was a tragic silence; then Lionel said:

"Sally, I beg of you, for your own sake, come with me now. This man can never be anything to you. If you knew as much as I do about him, you would not be here at this moment, humiliating yourself. I beg of you—"

I ran past him and clasped my hands round Mark's arm.

"Why don't you say something—why don't you say something?" I asked him, sobbing. "You hear what he says, and you know that if you want me I will marry you rather than any other man in the world."

"Sally, for God's sake!" Lionel broke in.

I turned and faced him.

"It's true," I said passionately. I

He disengaged my hands from his arms very gently, but he kept them both in his eye spoke.

"I think it is for me to choose," he said. "And as she has done me the honor to choose me—"

"The honor to choose you, you blackguard!" he shouted. "I don't know how you've got the internal impudence to stand there after what happened a month ago in Devonshire."

He was purple with rage, and he could hardly articulate as he turned once more to me.

"You never knew why he gave you up," he stammered. "You never knew, but you shall know now!"

He gave you up because your family offered to buy him off, that's why! They knew he was no suitable husband for you, and as they offered to buy him off, he let you think that he 'did not care for you.' Lionel's savage voice rose to a shout, and he gave a sharp-edged instrument, and I gave a sobbing cry of disbelief.

"I don't believe you—I don't believe you!"

"The truth!" he reiterated furiously. "It's the truth! Ask him, if he didn't agree to let you go in return for enough money with which to pay the mortgage off his farm! Ask him, if you won't take my word! Look at him, and see which of us is speaking the truth."

No. 117—A Trick With a Spoon.

To pick up a spoon between the tips of the thumb and second finger, with the latter in the bowl, as shown above, will be found difficult by most people.

Some practice is necessary to acquire the trick, but if the tips of the thumb and finger are previously rubbed on the trousers, to remove all dampness, the trick will be accomplished at once.

An easier trick is to lay the spoon with the bowl bottom up and lift it with the finger on the bottom of the bowl.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Keeps Watch

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Alas, that as we grow we must Replace our faith with grim distrust.

Johnny Chuck was sitting up very straight on his doorstep. You know Johnny can sit very straight when he wants to. Johnny Chuck was keeping watch. He was watching for possible danger. Of course it is nothing unusual for Johnny Chuck to sit up and keep watch for danger. He does it more or less every day. The queer thing about it this time was that he wasn't doing it for himself or for any of his family. I don't suppose he would have admitted that he was keeping watch. But he was, and he was doing it for a stray baby of one of his neighbors.

Just a little way from him was Peter Rabbit's favorite patch of sweet clover. At least it used to be Peter's favorite patch. That was before Johnny and Polly Chuck had moved over to the edge of the dear Old Briar-patch. Since then Peter had not been near that patch of sweet clover. But just now one of Peter's babies. He looked just exactly like Peter, only, of course, very, very much smaller. In fact he was altogether too small to be outside of the dear Old Briar-patch.

Johnny Chuck knew this. He knew that that little scamp had run away, or had wandered away, and it worried him. That was why he was keeping watch. He couldn't bear to think of harm coming to that innocent little stray Rabbit.

"If that were one of my babies I would know what to do," said Johnny to himself. "I would go out there and send him home as fast as his little legs could take him. But if I show myself to that little scamp out there, I'm sure he will be so frightened that he will be just as likely to run in the wrong direction as in the right. He never has seen me enough to know I'm not a danger to him. I probably would look like a terrible fellow to him. I don't suppose he has ever seen anybody but his father and mother."

"Perhaps nothing will happen to him. Probably when he has eaten enough clover he will scamper back to the dear Old Briar-patch. I'll just keep an eye on him."

So Johnny sat there keeping watch, and over in the patch of sweet clover the stray little Rabbit ate and ate and ate. "He's got his father's own appetite anyway," chuckled Johnny Chuck.

The little Rabbit had forgotten everything in his enjoyment of that sweet clover. Perhaps I shouldn't say that he had forgotten everything for he was such a very little fellow that he knew nothing of the Great World and so had nothing to forget. He thought of nothing but that sweet clover and how good it tasted. He didn't understand that it was a very dangerous thing for a baby Rabbit to go outside the dear Old Briar-patch alone. He hadn't lived long enough to have met danger in any form. To him the whole Great World was simply a wonderful and beautiful place.

When he had eaten until he simply couldn't swallow another bit of

OUR RICH BABY CROP

And What It Portends for Our Future

By Dr. W. A. McKEEVER.

THERE is a plaint going abroad from certain eugenicists that the "better class" of the people are refusing to have children in sufficient numbers to keep up the stock of virile and brilliant human beings.

However, if you will look into the matter with discernment you will see little cause for alarm. The world is full of babies, good ones, and the crop seems to come short of the demand. Rather than to increase the numbers and quality of the children, there is far greater need for an efficient system of bringing to maturity those we already have.

Inherently, our common children are 10 times better than the care and environment under which they are compelled to grow up. The situation is like that of fertilizing an already rich field and then permitting it to grow up with thistles and cockleweeds.

The noxious weeds of economic exploitation and the unchecked ravages of neglect and ill treatment of the young are matters which should have the first attention of eugenicists and other classes of social scientists.

The great common stock of mankind are the carriers and transmitters of all the essential human qualities. The so-called better class are found to be simply a class of individuals who happen to "get on" rather more successfully than the average. But this class fails to preserve any clear lines of distinction through even as few as three successive generations. By the end of that brief span of time another "better class" has arisen and out of the loins of no distinct or distinguished group of ancestry.

Perhaps less than 10 per cent of the children are born with varying degrees of inherent weakness of mind, body and moral potentiality. That this "fringe" of objectionable elements can be reduced through constant eugenic and eutenic measures there is little doubt. But the facts that:

"The poor you always have with you," and—"Man is prone to sin as the sparks to fly upward"—these seem to be eternal and insurmountable obstacles to the practical perfection of human existence on the earth. By the very nature of its changes, se-

SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO

A HUSTLING free lance in the white goods business thought he saw a magnificent opening to buy up a bankrupt stock of underwear and by a quick turnover among the jobbers to realize a handsome profit from the venture. By persuasive arguments he succeeded in inducing a Bowers bank to let him have a hundred thousand dollars in order to swing the deal. The deal was swung, but for some reason or other the enterprising speculator was not able to move his newly acquired stocks as rapidly as he had figured on. Maybe the wholesale market was sluggish at that particular time, or maybe it was that a sudden change in weather conditions had impaired the demand for all-wool union suits.

Be this as it may, one morning the president of the bank sent word to the borrower that he desired to see him immediately and the latter promptly answered the summons.

"Look here, Mr. Jacobson," said the banker, "I'll have to call your loan, and I'll have to call it immediately."

"But, Mr. Slocum," protested Jacobson, "you couldn't do that. Still I am all tied up with them stocks and I must have more time."

"I'm sorry for you if you're going to be embarrassed," said Mr. Slocum, "but I can't help myself. The State Bank Examiner was in here yesterday going over our books and he tells me we must clean up a lot of our accounts, especially where we have loaned money on merchandise. Now, your note for a hundred thousand dollars is a demand note, as you will recall, and not a time note, so I must ask you to be able to take up that note not later than Wednesday, the fifteenth of next month."

"Well," said Mr. Jacobson, resignedly, "that's the way things go. Not has to be as to be, I guess." He thought for a moment.

"Mr. Slocum," he said, "maybe you have yourself looked into the ins and outs of underwear, eh?"

"Mr. Jacobson," said the banker, "I'm not interested in the underwear business."

"Well," said Mr. Jacobson, softly, "you should be. Because Wednesday, the fifteenth, you're going to be in it."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

POPE WAS RIGHT.

We hold with Alexander Pope,
Who frequently expressed
The thought that man has little hope
Of being wholly blessed.
When we believe at last that all
Our wishes are fulfilled, Misfortune is certain to befall
And in the beams are split.

For instance, we have yearned to own
And wear upon our tie
A rare and radiant precious stone
To catch the public's eye.
We meant to sport it on Broadway,
And fondly pictured how
The girls would gaze at it and say,
"Ain't that the cat's meow?"

But years of poverty caused While all our earnings went
To meet the cost of clothes and food
And pay the monthly rent.
Our spirits fell with each advance,
Despair sat on our brow.
Alas, there seemed but little chance
To buy the bauble now!

Then lo! the cost of living fell,
A tidy sum we saved,
And hastened cityward pell-mell
To get the stone we craved.

We still are wearing sorrow's crown
And wormwood fills our cup.
While living costs were going down
The cost of stones went up!

GENOA, May 10.—Just before... the finishing touches to the...
answer to the allies, Gen...
Tchitcherine yesterday afternoon...
an exclusive interview to the w...
outlining specifically the...
and making frank comm... on the allied position.

phasized by the head of the Russian...

conference is second only to t...
Lloyd George, was noncommitt...
to the duration of the negotia...
"If our terms are accepted, I... willing to negotiate for a lim...
if necessary," he said emphat...
"We are conciliatory, but we...
